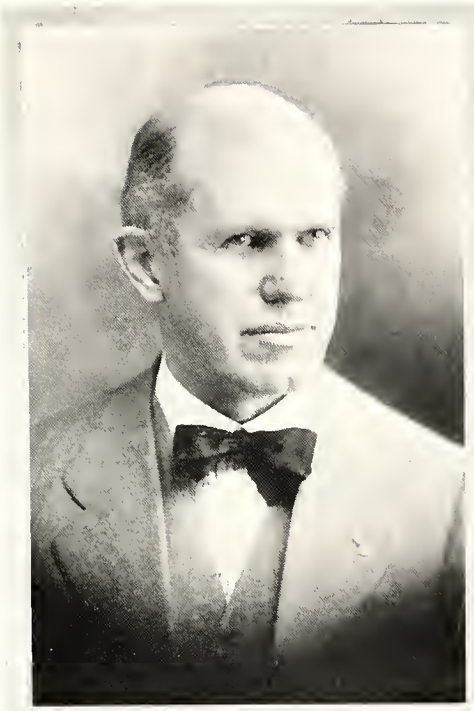
Our School



Mr. G. O. Banting

Superintendent of Schools

Scholarship, implying as it does intellectual ambition, ennobling sacrifice, sustained determination, and, best of all, hard mental work, must of course rank first among the objects of that great and ever-widening social experience that we call education. It is not only the wealth of useful knowledge gained and the mental stimulus and satisfaction that come with the vital contact with the great thought and the great thinkers of our race, but it is the equipment of mind and soul, the preparation for high endeavor that come only with the attainment of real scholarship.

The student who has made intellectual achievement his aim, who has conscientiously done his best, must feel that satisfaction, that inner harmony with himself, that comes with a sense of being prepared, of being equipped with the proper armor for the battle of life. As William James says, the young man or woman so prepared need never fear for the future, but may confidently expect to wake up some fine morning to find himself, if not famous, at least one of the capable and successful men and women of his generation.

G. O. BANTING.

Mr. J. E. Worthington

Principal of Junior-Senior High School

Two objectives of the school in which commendable progress has been made during the year are student guidance and improved scholarship. Guidance is that function of the school by which pupils are led to make right decisions. Long before the term was used as it now is, the member of the faculty to whom this book is dedicated was doing effective work in influencing boys and girls to make right decisions, and today her work in this field stands out pre-eminently. Her influence upon the freshman group of rural students, of which she is the faculty adviser, is outstanding. The good she does in creating the right attitude towards school and towards life cannot be measured.

In improving scholarship she also has had a big part. Long before Professor Morrison emphasized the word "mastery," she was demanding complete mastery. Her emphasis upon thoroughness has made many a pupil a much better student. One of the joys that comes to the principal is to meet alumni as they, from time to time, return to the school. Invariably they inquire about Miss Dickie, and the kind words they say, and the expressions of help received, make one feel that the pay of the school teacher is not so bad after all.

Miss Sarah Dickie is to be congratulated upon having the privilege of living and working for thirty-five and one-half years with students of the High School, and the school is to be congratulated upon her wholesome influence upon the lives of its members in those things most worth while.

J. E. WORTHINGTON.

Nellie M. Lamoreux

Vice-Principal of Junior-Senior High School

Personal, studious endeavor is the cultivation of one's latent intelligence, the harvest of which is scholarship. It wins for us our own self-esteem and praise from our friends. Its yield is in proportion to the efforts made. Its promise is success. Scholarship aids us in the ever-growing appreciation of the world of which we are a part—it is the force which enables us to make a success in this competitive life.

NELLIE M. LAMOREUX.

Mr. Arthur Rahn

Vice-Principal of Junior High School

Our ideal, "The Lincoln Spirit," has been attained by the students of the Lincoln Junior High both in scholastic achievements and extra-curricular activities.

Fifty-two members of the student body, a group twice as large as formerly, have acquired the school average of ninety or above and were candidates for the Honor Society.

Our extra-curricular program offers an opportunity for all rather than a few. Sixty-eight percent of the boys and sixty percent of the girls are at present taking part in some form of activity.

ARTHUR RAHN.

Courses of Instruction and Student Administration

Agriculture

Agriculture was first taught in the Waukesha High School by Miss Dickie, who taught general agriculture to students in the Teachers' Training Department in their Sophomore year. This course was offered from 1912 to 1917, when Mr. George Larson became the full-time teacher of vocational agriculture.

The agriculture course is open only to farm boys, or boys who have had some farm experience, and consists of four one-credit subjects. For the last four years the Department of Agriculture in the Waukesha High School has been one of the largest of ninety in the State.

Art

Art is being offered to both boys and girls in the Junior and Senior High Schools. The Junior High classes meet once a week.

In the Senior High School the students meet twice a week and a large variety of work is being done in such mediums as pastel, crayon, water color, charcoal, enamel, lacquer, dye, pottery, leather, and china.

The objectives of the art course are: to lay a broad foundation for appreciation and selection: to present the principles of balance, rhythm, and harmony of line, form, and color: to bring to the pupil recognition and understanding of the laws of beauty; to bring the joy of appreciation to all—to the twenty-five percent who are gifted with deft fingers and to the seventy-five percent who cannot create but can appreciate.

Commercial Department

The Commercial Department of Waukesha High School was started about twenty years ago with one teacher, several typewriters, and an enrollment of about one hundred students.

Today the department has an enrollment of 625 students, directed by six teachers, with a well-rounded course including the following subjects: penmanship, junior business training, arithmetic, bookkeeping, commercial geography, shorthand, typewriting, law, business organization, salesmanship, and advertising.

It is our aim to give our students an understanding of principles of business, useful to all persons, regardless of their occupation; to train them to fill satisfactorily positions open to high school graduates; to furnish courses necessary for future study in commerce; and to instil a desire for further training necessary to become a worthwhile citizen of the community.

English and Language

The English Department is the largest department in the Junior-Senior High School. Ten full-time teachers and one part-time teacher are required to carry out its extensive program. The scope of the work covers all of the phases of English, namely: (1) literature—this includes much outside reading, (2) oral and written composition work, (3) grammar, and (4) spelling.

The department also supports two classes in journalism; it is also responsible for the school publication, The Cardinal Star, and the school annual, The Megaphone.

Home Economics

The Home Economics Department has three well-equipped rooms on the third floor of the Junior High School. It offers work from grades seven to twelve. The courses are changed each year to keep up with their times. The courses include, beside cooking, sewing and dressmaking, and many interesting and varied short units, such as infant care, costume design, hospitality cookery, entertaining, courtesy, clothing selection, textiles, personal improvement, child care and training, family relationships, marketing, house planning, and house furnishing. In addition to the regular work, the classes do all of the canning and preserving, as well as a large amount of sewing, for the Municipal Hospital.

The Library

Books! books! books! "The true university of these days is a collection of books," Carlyle wrote in Heroes and Hero Worship. The library is for all—teachers and pupils. There is something for everyone in the Junior and Senior High Schools. There is nothing but the best and something new always, be it magazine, book, or special reference. April, 1930, shows nearly 9,000 books on the shelves; more than seven hundred books have been purchased this year.

Among the magazines which are on file are The Atlantic Monthly, Harper's Magazine, Good Housekeeping, Ladies' Home Journal, Popular Science, Scientific American, The Travel Magazine, The National Geographic, The Bookman, and The Saturday Review of Literature.

Students are urged to make the library their headquarters during their four years at Waukesha High School.

Manual Arts

The Industrial Arts Department in the past few years has taken on a new aspect. Formerly industrial arts was strictly a vocational subject. In recent years the work required in the Junior High School has been on an exploratory basis, and assumes that the subjects have a definite place in the curriculum, and that information and skill are inter-related.

The Senior High School work in industrial arts is strictly vocational in character and assumes that the pupil has a vocational interest or is interested in the work for leisure time activity. The work is based on training which includes the elements required for success in industry.

Mathematics

The Department of Mathematics, which employs seven regular teachers and one part-time, offers a course in mathematics for each grade from the seventh through the twelfth.

The unified work in the Junior High School gives the pupil a background in several fields of mathematics. Algebra and geometry, both required for entrance to most colleges and universities, are offered in the ninth and tenth grades. The courses in solid geometry, advanced algebra, college algebra, and trigonometry are of value principally to the group who need them as preparation for advanced work and to those who are mathematically inclined.

Music

The growing importance of music as a subject in the Waukesha Junior and Senior High Schoo's made necessary the addition of one full-time and two part-time staff members this year. Instrumental classes are conducted by Mr. Damsteegt in all instruments to prepare material for the orchestra and band. The Senior Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs are under the guidance of Miss Monlux, Music Supervisor. Miss Haentzschel, the new full-time staff member, is in charge of the Junior and Senior High School classes in chorus, and trains the Junior singers. The part-time staff members are Miss Smith and Miss Fardy, who train the Junior Orchestra and Junior Girls' Glee Club, respectively.

Science

The Science Department of the Waukesha High School offers a year's work in each of the following subjects: general science, biology, chemistry, and physics. The work in general science is required, while that in biology, chemistry, and physics is elective.

The laboratories are being well equipped for illustrative and experimental work, new and desirable pieces of apparatus being added each year.

Each subject has its full quota of pupils. With an efficient corps of instructors the aim is to develop habits of right thinking and living as well as to acquire knowledge.

Social Science

Modern methods in the study and presentation of history challenge the intellect of the student rather than his memory. The student no longer thinks of history as a series of unrelated facts studied from a single text, but as a co-operative subject based on a critical survey of sources.

This type of study requires both intensive and extensive reading, and in meeting this demand for books, the department has helped to build up an unusually fine historical reference section in our library.

The Social Science Department includes seventh and eighth grade history and civics, ninth grade vocational civics, ancient, mediaeval, and modern history, sociology, and economics, and properly one year of the history of our own country is required.

Student Council

The Student Council is a student government organization composed of representatives from each class. The president and vice-president are elected from the Senior Class and the secretary and treasurer from the Junior Class. The members must maintain a high scholarship.

The whole council is divided into committees. Each committee has charge of some phase of the organization's work. Running a lost and found department, planning school assemblies, enforcing a system of hall traffic are among the duties of this body. A fine homecoming and a very successful social program were features of this year.

Meetings are held every Monday and Friday during the twenty-minute period. The activities are supervised by the faculty advisers, Mrs. Carroll, Miss Tuohy, and Mr. Grueneisen.

In order to further the Lincoln spirit in the Junior High School, the Lincoln Code was worked out by the Student Council.

Representatives from the Council act as assistants in the Junior High Library, are in charge of the Junior High office, plan assembly programs, and take care of the Lost and Found.

Entire control of the order in the halls before and after school is in the hands of the Council, and with their system of hall monitors and supervisors, they have been very successful in helping pupils to reach their home rooms on time and to clear the halls after school.

Honor Society

The Waukesha High School Honor Society became a member of the National Organization in February, 1925.

The purpose of the organization is to increase the ideals of character, leadership, scholarship, and service in school work. The members are elected according to grades and the number of points they have received in outside activities. Their characteristics of leadership are also taken into consideration.

The present members of the Honor Society are: Helen Heywood, Swen Magnusson, Lucia Stanfield, Carol Robinson, Louise Diethelm, Viola Nass, Paul Sawyer, Frances Jacques, Esther Winter, Marie Kindsvogel, Marcella Schneider, Ruth Bliese, Gladys Gierke, Elizabeth Thomas, Janet Dancey, Bernice Badciong, Bernice Gaylord, John Parkinson, Julia Kuhtz, Edith Perren, Jack Farmer, Harry O'Mealy, Joseph Natalizio, Harold Smith, Dorothy Schmuki, Jack Longley, Junior Ten Broek, Marion Torhorst.

Junior High Honor Society

The Junior High Honor Society was organized in 1927, and at the present time has an active membership of twenty.

Election to the Junior Honor Society is one of the highest honors that can be given to a Junior High student. Not only must a student attain a scholastic average of ninety, but he must have desirable qualities of leadership, character, service, and have the real Lincoln Spirit.

Elections are held once each semester and membership must be won anew each semester. To the successful candidates are presented "H's" signifying honor students. To those fortunate enough to secure the "H" for three semesters is given a gold "L," indicative of the Lincoln Junior High School, of the Lincoln Spirit, a follower of the Lincoln Code, and a real leader. This "L" is a permanent award which the possessor may wear as long as he maintains the qualities and standards of an honor student.

OFFICERS

President	Swen Magnusson
Vice-President	Frank Godersky
Treasurer	Sarah Williams
Secretary	Gladys Gierke

Mrs. Rachel Riley, who has so faithfully guided the Class of June, 1930, may well be pleased with the record that the members of this class have made in various forms of school life.

The class has an enrollment of about 140 students, having approximately twenty per cent of the students on the honor roll and a large number in the Waukesha Chapter of the National Honor Society.

The Junior Prom, of which Lloyd Murphy was chairman, was acknowledged as one of the greatest social events in the history of Waukesha High School. Many successful evening parties were also sponsored by this class.

The class has been well represented in the field of athletics, many of the valuable players being members.

The class has also been well represented on the debate teams, the Megaphone staff, the Cardinal Star staff, the musical organizations, and in dramatics.

Class of January, 1931

OFFICERS

President . . . . . William Stare
Vice-President . . . . . William Thiel
Secretary and Treasurer . . . . . Bernice Badciong

While the Class of January, 1931, is the smallest in school, it plays an important part in the life of the school. Under the fine leadership of Miss Shaw, the class has made a splendid showing in all phases of school life.

Many of the boys are active in the Glee Club, and several had important parts in the musical productions of this year. The class was also represented in the cast of the all-school play.

The girls are especially active in the Girls' Athletic Association and the Laf-a-Lot.

The class helped to put over a highly successful prom by planning the program, menu, and decorations of the banquet. This class has always been a firm supporter of all school projects and has tried to be worthy of Waukesha High School.

Class of June, 1931

President	John Davies
Vice-President	Harry O'Mealy
Secretary	Martha Ostermann
Treasurer	Joseph Natalizio

The Class of June, 1931, is a most active group in social and extra-curricular activities.

The members of this class have shown an exceedingly fine interest in the financing of the Junior Prom of May, 1930. They have active representatives in the spring track and field meets, and on the gridiron. When Coach Saubert called for basketball material, he received a small army from the Junior Class, and chose several of the boys for the first team. The Row 4: Tews, Mealy, Montgomery, Salter, R. Leberman, McCarragher, Ostermann, McCann, Schley, West, Price, Young, Mamerow, Nettesheim, Raht.

Row 5: Williamson, Morey, Ten Broek, Shepard, Shellestad, W. Rumer, O'Mealy, Schlicker, Schaeffel, Olson, Lagon, Pronold, H. Smith, Piper, Mueller.

Junior boys won second place in the basketball tourney this fall. They helped make the school play, "Nathan Hale," a success and put on a play of their own.

John Davies, president and Prom chairman, is active in track and basketball, and has earned a "W" in tennis. The vice-president, Harry O'Mealy, has earned his "W" in track and cross-country running. Martha Ostermann is a most versatile secretary. Joe Natalizio, the treasurer, is a class cheer-leader. Larry Williamson, John Davies, John Smith, Harold Smith, and George Shellestad have all held major offices in the Student Council.

With Miss Hawkins as adviser, the class of 140 students has done great work for the Waukesha High School.

Row 1: Niedercorn, Patrinos, Schock, Hendrick, M. Murray, Miller, Carlson, Dunn, Belland, Mackey, Bassett, D. Gebhardt, Settlage, Shipway.

Row 2: M. Schley, Milsher, Torrison, Baumhover, Murdock, Salter, Kirchoff, McNulty, B. Gebhardt, Bloede, Williams, Bliese, Fiedler.

Class of January, 1932

President	Gertrude Settlage
Vice-President	Gretchen Mackey
Secretary	Justine Bassett
Treasurer	Leslie Weinkauf

The Class of January, 1932, endeavors to contribute real school spirit and loyalty. The athletic students have created a great spirit of enthusiasm in the basketball season. With the aid of Earl Schley, Leslie Weinkauf, William Wolf, LeRoy Goerke, Lyle Bushweiler, Milton Schley, Jason Griesell, and Joe Alexander, the class was able to win the championship.

The class is represented in football by Earl Schley, Leslie Weinkauf, William Wolf, Oliver Moore, and Roy Stark.

Gertrude Settlage, Gretchen Mackey, and Earl Schley are class representatives for the Student Council. Several members of the class belong to the Girls' Glee Club.

Miss Nehls is the class supervisor and is aided by Mr. N. J. Panella.

Sophomores

Row 1: Cheaney, Burmeister, Atkinson, Hanke, Cramer, Hause, Bliesath, Bean, J. Atkinson, Ellmore, Fox, Clark.

Row 2: Davis, Brown, Christison, Henderson, Hack, Hayek, Hauser, Garrow, Hamilton, Dubey, Giles, Adler.

Row 3: Gottlieb, Atken, Howard, Covey, Harbort, Granicher, Hodgson, Drake, Brimmer.

Row 4: Golemgeske, Badciong, Blott, Dawling, Frank, Crump, Blackstone, Gorman, Dibble, Burmeister, Breecher.

Row 5: Bloom, Gavigan, Garity, Pridemore.

Class of June, 1932

President	Arthur Frank
Vice-President	Mary Vetto
Secretary	Billy Murphy
Treasurer	Richard Leberman

The 10A Class strives to take part in school activities, and to forward the school spirit.

Miss Josephine Price is the 10A Class adviser, ably assisted by Miss Toms, Miss Friday, Miss Hoffman, and Miss Willard.

Every other week the class has had an outside speaker. They have enjoyed many interesting talks given by Mr. Banting, Mr. Worthington, Miss Laura Wright, Mrs. Blackstone, Rev. Mr. Drake, and Rev. Mr. Heywood. These talks were very beneficial to all.

A few members of the class belong to the Girls' Glee Club.

Row 1: B. Knoebel, Kennedy, Loppnow, Jenkins, McNaught, Koloski, Laduc, Koput, McNaught, Klussendorf, Meier.

Row 2: Kuess, Miller, Lobuscher, Lupski, Murray, Koch, Korber, Ludwig, Jackson, Murphy, Nigro.

Row 3: Kranich, Moyle, Lorier, Lichtie, M. Knoebel, Marshek, Muehl, McCarragher, Norris, Neff, Lansinger.

Row 4: Kuenzli, Melville, Martin, Nehs, Kranzush, Griswold, Nichols, Mickel, Mathews, Inzeo, Leberman.

Row 5: Mickel.

Also, one member of the class is dramatically inclined. This boy is Herman Schaefer, who took the part of a soldier in "Nathan Hale," and also was a sailor in "His Majesty's Ship Pinafore."

This year is the first time the class has had class dues. They are starting this now, so it will not be so hard to raise money for the prom in their Junior year.

Many members of the class ordered their class pins or rings.

The 10A's are ably represented in athletics by John Golemgeske, who has distinguished himself in basketball, football, volleyball and track.

Esther Sherman, Gertrude Granicher, John Golemgeske, and Wilbur Blott represent the class on the Student Council.

In spite of the outside activities of the class, scholarship is not neglected.

Great things will be expected of the Sophomore Class.

Row 1: G. Flynn, Bender, Griswold, Klug, Graser, Griswold, D. Pridemore, Sanders, Schmidt, Hine.

Row 2: Caldwell, Ledwith, Howell, Hendrick, White, Keppen, Sayles, Lestina, Reid, Pancratz, Mollerman, Tamms.

Row 3: Conway, Krebbs, Snyder, Roberts, Martin, Nelson, Lynch, Riche, Katzner, Groth.

Row 4: Rowlands, Garvens, Hardleman, Brierton, Imer, Loomis, Robel, Brockway, McGowan.

Row 1: Torhorst, Sherman, Storck, Sewnig, Volpano, Schober, Welch, Pfeil, Preston, Sayles, Perren, Schneider.

Row 2: Wedlock, Price, Thomacy, Ross, Sawyer, Winchell, Thomas, Tiegs, Vetto, Perrin.

Row 3: Stanfield, Staub, Wakeman, Troemmel, Pari, Young, Torhorst, Price, Thompson, Yatzeck.

Row 4: Venzke, Richter, Pendowski, Schley, Wheelock, Partz, Schultz, Sugden, Schulze, Rombough.

Row 5: Perkins, Schiewitz, Varley, Rankin, Pridemore, Schaefer.

Row 1: Lieberman, Bell, Goetzelman, Hardtke, Hein, Assman, Hale, Martin, Fischer, Vohs, Potts, Ruch, Overholt.
Row 2: Imig, Brisk, Scarce, Prothero, Scheets, Mueller, Ahrens, Brechlin, Smith, Reynolds, Hoeveler, Hoefs, Williamson.
Row 3: Cambier, Huppert, Wilson, Meissner, Thompson, Preiso, Mickle, Pagliaro, Grigloff.
Row 4: Dumbleton, Baird, McKillops, Lubnow, Adams, Merten, Wandschneider, Trakel, Aikey.
Row 5: Breecher, Moen, Glaeser.

Class of January, 1933

President	Raymond Trakel
Secretary-Treasurer	Ronald McKillops

Although the 10B's have not been long in the Senior High, their influence is already noticeable in the various aspects of school life. They are rapidly developing a true school spirit with the hearty co-operation of their officers and the help of Miss Toms, their class adviser, who is always ready to give advice in the many problems of Senior High School life.

Their two home rooms, 213 and 214, have made excellent records in banking that other session rooms may well envy.

A large number of the girls belong to the G. A. A. and take an active part in the games and other events of an athletic nature.

In the glee clubs, the band, and the orchestra, there are members of this class. Van Lare Cambier took the part of "Dick Deadeye," the villain, in the Senior High School operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore." In the Junior High operetta, "Hansel and Gretel," Virginia Fisher took the part of the "Witch," and Frances Hoeveler was the "Mother."

Although the members of this class take part in many extra-curricular activities, scholarship has not been neglected. Among those who were on the Honor Roll for the first six weeks of the second semester are Virginia Fisher, Ronald McKillops, and Helen Vohs.

Dearest Marjorie,
I sincerely hope

Row 5: Davis, Allen, Baird, Baltes, Baumeister, Brolick, Bugbee, Blaisdell.

Class of June, 1933

The 9A Class—the largest in the Junior High, with an enrollment of over a hundred—has attained that happy balance of combining high scholastic standards with many extra-curricular activities. Their claim to fine scholarship is well supported by the silent testimony of the many members of this class on the Junior High Honor Society. Those members of the class who have earned their gold "L's" are: Laura Jane Birch, Shirley Hartwick, Phronsie Jacob, Fred Neumann, and Gwyneth Price. Those in the Honor Society, who do not as yet have an "L," include Florence Kluessendorf, Jean Royske, and Walter Schrump.

There are a good many of the boys of the 9A's on the various Junior High teams. Some of the most prominent are the following: Jack Blaisdell, Ben Bugbee, Kenneth Cooley, and James Hannon.

The boys, however, by no means hold a monopoly on the participation in athletics, for many of the girls belong to the Junior G. A. A.; several have earned their "L's," three of whom are Laura Jane Birch, Betty Schroeder, and Maxine Shepard.

Row 1: Henrickson, Hinkley, Horning, Horn, Kastenholz, Jacob, Jaeger, Hartwick, Hine, Heinzelman, Jezo, Hanke.

Row 2: C. Jones, Henrich, Heyder, Honeyager, Gaulke, C. Graser, Kleist, Hanke, Gedakowitz, F. Klussendorf, Gygax, Heywood.

Row 3: Kirchoff, Graser, Hecht, Gothow, Geller, Jones, H. Graser, Hulburt.

Row 4: Follendorf, Goetsch, Kennedy, Hodgins, Klussendorf, Hahn, Knoebel, Goerke.

Row 5: Kaczmarek, Fruit, Knopf, Gardinier, Hannon.

In addition to their other virtues, the 9A's are also musical; and they may be proud that their class is already represented in both the band and orchestra. One of the members—Elizabeth Ward—took a leading part in the High School operetta, "Pinafore." Phronsie Jacob had the part of Gretel in "Hansel and Gretel." Many of the girls belong to the Junior High Glee Club, and next fall will be welcomed into the Senior High Glee Club.

The class as a whole has a high banking average. Miss Dickie's room, 104, has had an average of 100% from the beginning of the school year.

About ten 9A boys are members of the Science Club, and the president, Frederick Neumann, is also from this class.

Four of the boys have received their "L's" this semester. They are Frederick Neumann, Jack Blaisdell, Charles Robel, and Barry Gillet.

Iris Blodgett, Margaret Baird, Phronsie Jacob, Laura Jane Birch, Frederick Neumann, Hugh Hulburt, Leslie Baird, and Benjamin Bugbee represent the class on the Junior Student Council. Betty Schroeder, of the class, is Council president.

Row 1: Monsler, Niedercorn, Pagano, Muenzberg, Roberts, McNaught, Michael, McKenzie, Raduege, Lounsberg, Migach, Moellerman, Lohry.
Row 2: Nelson, Roberson, Rohde, Ray, Royske, Pokrandt, Price, Pugh, Mielke, Dundy, Lyons, Means.
Row 3: Nichols, Price, Nichols, Lagon, Rohel, Owens, Leischer, Lowry, Lueders, Morris, A. Morris, Mitchell.
Row 4: Owens, Melindes, Riblet, Poetsch, Mann, Laing, Kliest, Lewis.

The class is fortunate in having Miss Knipfel as its adviser.

In conclusion, they are already well known, and when they are in the Senior High, doubtless, more will be heard of them.

Row 1: Shields, White, Wayland, Smith, White, Schwock, Wedlock, Sprader, Steinke, Yuhas, Welsh, Schober, Sobrofski, Wendt.
Row 2: Welsh, Yatzeck, Wagner, Thomas, Tews, Williams, Winzenried, Weston, Schoengrund, Steffin, Ziemer, Wrycza, Swain.
Row 3: Wright, McGreppe, Williams, Gerlindes, Wolfe, Walker, White, Smith, Lindholm, Yopps.
Row 4: Ward, Shepard, Yatzeck, Simon, Schrump, Gesch, Raht, Schmidt, Stollberg, Schoen.
Row 5: Schroeder, Sullivan, Steinmann, Klinger, Simon, White, Morse.

Row 1: Inzeo, Bitters, King, Farchione, Blott, Burtch, Greb, Ferks, Amidon, Bahr, Friedman.

Row 2: Bates, Chambers, Dewar, Bassett, Beaumeister, Gregory, Boteler, Eaton, Heywood, Downing.

Row 4: Kelsey, Kuhlman, Friemund, Cohen, Doughty, Christoph, Burrow.

Class of January, 1934

In the 9B Class of January, 1934, there are ninety-two students enrolled. They occupy Rooms J-221 and J-3 in the Lincoln Junior High School, and 212 in the Senior High School. Though separated this way, the students are able to co-operate with each other in every way.

Practically every student takes part in one or more school activities. The Science Club, B. A. A., Glee Club, and Boy Scouts are the chief activities in which the boys are interested. During the past semester the Boy Scouts have been heard over the air.

One of the best cheerleaders comes from the 9B Class.

The girls take part in Girl Reserves, Girl Scouts, Glee Club, and G. A. A. One thing which is rather uncommon in the history of the Lincoln Junior High School is the organization of a girls' football team called the "Baulheads." Proof can be given by Mr. Westerlund, their coach.

Row 1: Perrin, Tates, Savage, Monroe, Wagner, Stacey, Rederbaum, Merten, Olson, Nehs, Rich
Row 4: Schmoller, Wallace, Meier, Murray, Polfus, Lockney, Reep, Lumb.

Both boys and girls are represented in the National Honor Society and Student Council.

One member of the class has had the opportunity of studying in Europe.

Other activities which are looked forward to and enjoyed very much are the annual sleigh-ride parties.

Last, but not least, the 9B's have made a splendid record in banking, having 100% during the whole semester.

Activities

Row 1: Miss Timbers, M. Murray, McCarragher, Seaborn, Robinson, Williams, Laing, Werra, Yeroshek, Seitz, Smith, Nelson.

Row 2: Schmuki, Rhode, Trnshinski, Seaborn, Kindsvogel, Storck, Stanfield, Schneider, Ridley, Wolf, Yatzeck, Wilson.

Row 4: Schwartz, Lewis, Spillman, Richardson, Mills, Pfeffer, Robinson, Roberts.

Girl Reserves

OFFICERS

President	Lucia Stanfield
Vice-President	Janet Dancey
Secretary	Magna Werra
Treasurer	Elizabeth Hopkins

Girl Reserves are the younger members of the Y. W. C. A. who think of themselves as a reserve force getting ready for places of leadership in the Y. W. C. A., their homes, schools, churches, and community.

The symbol of the Girl Reserves is the blue triangle. A Girl Reserve becomes a searcher for the best things of the body, mind, and spirit in order that she may share it with others.

Any girl in Junior or Senior High School may become a member by expressing her desire to follow the purpose and code:

Row 1: Klatt, Creech, Cooley, Hoevcler, Edwards, Bernow, Dunn, Green, Charleton, Dunn, Bullen, Beaty, Barnhart.

Row 2: Knipfel, J. Clark, Bowe, Kinsey, Borenstein, R. Bliese, M. Howard, H. Howard, Howell, Bancroft, Fiedler, Frank, Dunn.

Row 3: Diel, Henricks, Hendrickson, Gaylord, Holtz, Jenkins, Clark, Betker, Ferrara, Flamingo, Bucci, Cook, Comer, Bassett.

Row 4: Jeffrey, Dieman, Heinzelman, Kleinschmidt, Burmeister, Beller, Blodgett, Baird, Hahn, Hoffman, Bray, Dancey, Clutterbuck, F. Bliese.

Row 5: Delmore, Empey, Hanson, Graham, G. Fritz, Golemgeske, Hadfield, Jones, Badciong, Hopkins.

As a Girl Reserve I will try to be:

Gracious in manner
Impartial in judgment
Ready for service
Loyal to friends
Reaching toward the best
Earnest in purpose
Seeing the beautiful
Eager for knowledge
Reverent to God
Victorious over self
Ever dependable
Sincere at all times

Purpose: To face life squarely and to find and give the best.

In the Senior High School there are two Girl Reserve Clubs:

10B—Miss Estelle Wolf, Adviser.

Laf-a-Lot Club composed of 10A, 11B, 11A, 12B, and 12A girls.

The advisers for the Laf-a-Lot Club are Miss Nehls, Miss Hoffman, and Miss Humphries.

Row 1: Pfeil, McNaught, Bliesath, Koloski, McCarragher, McNaught, Hayek, Graser, Lichtie, Miss Timbers.
Row 2: Davis, Covey, Welch, Lobuscher, Keppen, Hamilton, Burmeister, Ross, Sawyer, Norris, Miss Wolf.
Row 3: Ahrens, Harbort, Granicher, Wakeman, Muehl, Reid, Drake.

This year the Laf-a-Lot Club has been trying a new plan, using Interest Groups in the afternoon, and after a supper prepared by the girls, a program is given. Each girl chooses her own interest, dancing, dramatics, handcraft or the hostess group. After school she goes to her own group for an hour and then after supper the whole group joins for the program. Among the interesting programs have been a style show, a meeting on table manners, a talk on personality, and parties and discussions.

Row 1: Hardtke, Vohs, Osman, Miss Timbers, Miss Wulfing, Martin, Bell.
Row 2: Leberman, Prothro, Goetzleman, Miller, Hoeveler, White, Hine.
Row 3: Brecklin, Suuth, Fisher, Reynolds.

Row 1: Robinson, Blott, Gregory, Goerke, Inzeo, Stacey, Nigro, Olson, Merten, Bitters, Miss Timbers.
Row 2: Uhde, Bates, Spencer, Boteler, Eaton, Wilson, Yopps, Dewar, Marose, Beaumeister, Bassett, Schlosser.
Row 3: Göetzelman, Trakel, Feirks, Mickler, Schomer, Burtch, Carlson, Covey, Zick.

After the Girl Reserves graduate from High School there is an Alumni Club called the Comarados to which they may belong. Miss Ruth Timbers was the Girl Reserve Secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

In the Junior High School there are six clubs, one corresponding to Row 1: Franz, Gaspar, Davies, Trakel, Savatske, Burrow, Raduege, Blott, Zick, Bunell, Clayton, Miss Timbers.

Row 2: Ward, Christoph, Knipfel, Rowlands, Vick, Adami, D'Amato, Bauer, Rhode, Baird, Bahr, Miss Nohelty.
Row 3: Thompson, McFarlane, Jones, Poetsch, Spencer, Wandschneider, Chase.
Row 4: Steinmann, Morton, Anderson, Finn.

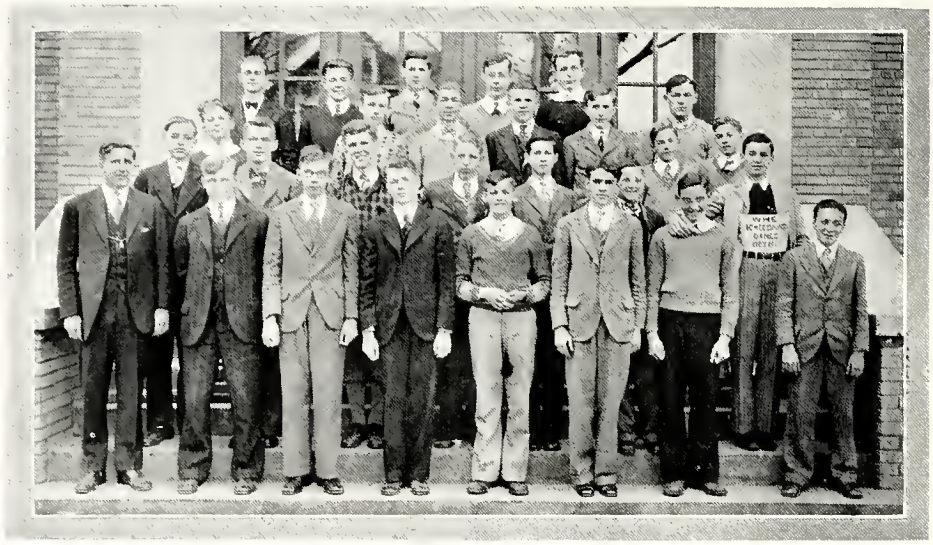
Row 1: Crank, Beesaw, Sprader, Mielke, Jaeger, Jacob, Hartwick, Horning, Campbell, Gathow, Miss Timbers.
Row 2: Jones, Nehs, Gedakowitz, Yuhas, Schroeder, Clayton, Fisher, Frese, Kluessendorf, Miss McIntosh, Hinkley.
Row 3: Birch, Ferrara, Cohen, Hendricks, Lowey, Rhode, Empey, Wagner, Yatzek, Price.
Row 4: Lundy, Pokrandt, Alm, Callows, Shepard, Fuchs, Ward, Dailey, Wayland.

each class. Each club has its own officers, who with an adviser help plan the club programs. The clubs and advisers are:

7B—Miss Nohelty.	8A—Miss Dickie
7A—Miss Schultz.	9B—Miss McIntosh.
8B—Miss Hutton.	9A—Miss Wulfing.

In the club work the activities include talks, discussions, handicraft, parties, and out-door activities as hiking, coasting, skating, etc.

Row 1: Granger, Lull, Lewis, Hamilton, Loebl, Hardtke, Rogers, Torrison, Sutton, Larson, Miss Timbers.
Row 2: Timm, Jarden, Peters, Carlson, Koch, Sellner, Torhorst, Plotz, Sears, McGeen, Schumacher.
Row 3: Grabow, Reese, Kline, Park, Law, Longwitz, Davis, Dungey.



Row 1: Mr. Hanson, Mr. Rossmiller, Ten Broek, Davies, Schley, Kline, McCann, Natalizio.
Row 2: Delzer, Shellestad, Blaisdell, Pretts, Swain, Bloom, Williamson.
Row 3: Pfeil, Curtis, Murphy, Sawyer, Lehnheuter, Longley, O. Williams, Gale, Parkinson, Hoffman, D. Williams.

Hi-Y Club

Senior Club		Junior Club
Paul Sawyer	President	John Davies
John Curtis	Vice-President	Chester McCann
John Parkinson	Treasurer	William Pretts
Alvin Hoffman	Secretary	Junior Ten Broek

The Hi-Y, a Y. M. C. A. organization, is divided into two clubs, the Junior Hi-Y, composed of members of the Junior Class, and the Senior Hi-Y, composed of members of the Senior Class. Mr. Rossman and Mr. Hanson are the leaders of the Junior and Senior Clubs, respectively.

The purpose of the Hi-Y is "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character." The platform of the Hi-Y is "clean sports, clean speech, clean scholarship, and clean living."

The clubs have a meeting once a week at the Y. M. C. A. At the meetings problems which concern the club or its members are discussed. At some meetings speakers interested in the Y. M. work are heard. Entertaining programs are given by the boys. Social activities are: theatre parties, sleigh-ride parties, and skating parties. Athletic competition is keen between the two clubs. An outing is given a few weeks before summer vacation.

A person's membership to the Hi-Y is not complete until he has attended an Older Boys' Conference. This is a state-wide meeting under the auspices of the State Y. M. C. A. Ten boys represented the local clubs in the 1929 conference in Wausau last November.

Row 1: Green, Adams, Mahnke, Friedman, Redding, Knight, Alberts, DeLong, Willison.

Row 4: Coach Westerlund, Neumann, Knopf, Schrump, Carey, Mr. Booth, Gadherry.

Black Hawk and Railsplitter Clubs

President	Julian Carey
Secretary.	Jack Blaisdell

The Black Hawk and Railsplitter Clubs, composed of some thirty boys, are sponsored by Coach Westerlund and Mr. Booth. The clubs meet at the "Y" every Thursday night; their programs are instructional and entertaining.

The chief motive of the clubs is to promote social welfare among the boys of the Junior High School, to inspire their minds, and to acquaint them with those things of a boy's life that are so essential and still often overlooked.

Both clubs have enjoyed a very fine season and hope to conclude the school year with some sort of outing. It is hoped that next year will see more boys signifying their intentions of becoming Black Hawks or Railsplitters.

Row 1: Mr. Kusche, Perrin, Bahr, Becker, Morris, Heywood, Smith, Mielke, Alberts, Mr. Sebranke.
Row 2: Mr. Rahn, White, Christenson, Walsh, Jark, Bugbee, Snyder, Heiderman, Knight, Willison.
Row 3: Cohan, Christoph, Murray, Lockney, Blaisdell, Holloway, Blank, Lambert.
Row 4: Tessman, Schumpf, Knopf, Neumann, Hazen, Doughty, Knoebel.

Aero Club

President	Marshall Holloway
Secretary	Angus McDougall
Sergeant-at-Arms	Harry Tessman

The Aero Club has progressed splendidly since its organization in the fall of 1928. Its membership has increased and the weekly meetings have been conducted in a very businesslike manner. Under the guidance of two manual arts instructors and the co-operation of civic clubs in the city, its members feel that they are very fortunate in being able to be a part of the organization and take part in the contests it sponsors. Probably no other boys' club requires as much technical skill. It does much toward instilling the qualities of initiative, courage, and leadership in the traits of modern youth.

Junior Science Club

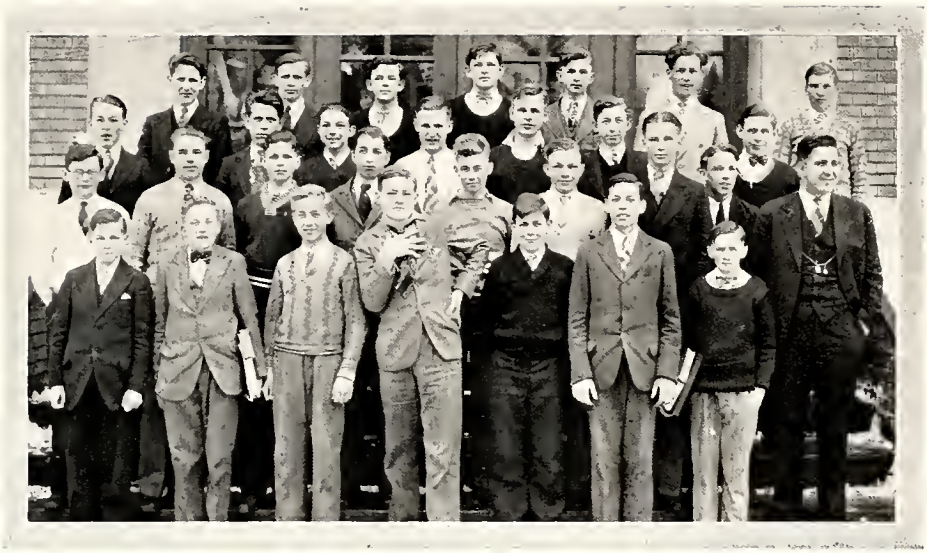
President	Fred Neumann
Vice-President	Jack Blaisdell
Secretary-Treasurer	Harold Cohan
Reporter	Walter Schrump

The foundation of all human progress is science. Science has progressed from ancient superstitions to modern applied phases which we have today. To awake in the minds of young people an interest in science is indeed a constructive and interesting work.

Here we find an opening for boys' clubs and organizations based on teaching science and principles of mechanical and electrical machinery.

A group of Junior High School boys under the supervision of Mr. Rahn organized such a club. After much deliberation a name, "Sons of Archimedes," was chosen.

This club was organized to promote the study and understanding of natural phenomena. The meetings are devoted to business, lectures, experiments, and other scientific research.



Row 1: Morris, R. Owens, E. Evans, Parsons, Heinzelmann, Portz, T. Chase, Hanson.

Y. M. C. A. Farm Group

President	George Heinzelmann
Secretary	George Gessert
Adviser	Harry G. Hanson, Boys' Work Secretary

The Farm Group is composed of Junior and Senior High School boys from the rural communities. The purpose of the organization is to provide a wholesome atmosphere for noon hour activities and recreation.

The noon programs include interesting reading articles in the reading room, small games in the lobby, and seasonal team games such as playground ball, basketball, touch football, volleyball, and indoor baseball. Once a week the group meets for a business and discussion meeting.

During the winter and during rainy weather the Y. M. C. A. gym is used; in spring and fall Cutler Park is reserved for the club's use.

Library Round Table

President ..... Janet Dancey
Treasurer ..... Julia Kuhtz

Foremost among the service clubs of the High School is the Library Round Table. This club consists of twelve leading girls, selected by Miss Tuohy for their outstanding scholarship and personality. Each girl is a willing, cheerful worker for the service of her school in efficient library administration. Members are as follows, in order of length of service: Julia Kuhtz, Helen Heywood, Bernice Gaylord, Janet Dancey, Mildred Barnhart, Elizabeth Hopkins, Betty Gaspar, Magna Werra, Betty Moore, Betty Thomas, Esther Winter, Bessie Goldsmith. Applications are considered as soon as a vacancy occurs.

The girls read the shelves, help keep the library neat and orderly, answer telephone, take charge of circulation, overdue books, the fines, loan desk, shellacking, accessioning, collecting, cataloging, shelf listing, magazine recording, filing, clipping, mounting, and a hundred other things. Miss Tuohy says she could not get along without them. She appreciates them very much.

This work carries a one-quarter credit a semester. Each girl is required to have a perfect attendance, with service of three hours a week given to the library.

Dues are twenty-five cents a semester.

One of the projects of the girls this year has been the furnishing of a reading room. Gifts from two graduating classes have aided materially. Just a beginning, however, has been made. Rugs, tables, chairs have been purchased, thus helping to create a reading atmosphere.

The All-School Play

This year the dramatics coach reached down into history and drew out "Nathan Hale" for the all-school play. It is perhaps right to say that this was the first true historical play the school has ever produced. So from that standpoint, it was something entirely new and more or less of an experiment. The results were gratifying, as those who were fortunate enough to see it can readily testify.

THE CAST

"H. M. S. Pinafore"

"H. M. S. Pinafore," a comic opera, was given this year by the Glee Clubs, under the direction of Miss Monlux and Miss Wright. Due to the fine directing of Miss Monlux and Miss Wright, the operetta was a huge success, and the crowds that came to see it were far greater than anyone anticipated.

Following was the cast of characters:

The Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., First Lord of the Admiralty	Leonard Marconi
Captain Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafore	Fred Hepp
Ralph Rackstaw, able seaman	Richard Kline

Girls' Glee Club

President . . . . Gertrude Hoeveler
Secretary and Treasurer . . . . Margaret Williams

The Waukesha Senior High School Girls' Glee Club is composed of forty-five girls. Under the direction of Miss Monlux the organization has made wonderful progress. The girls meet each Tuesday and Thursday night in Room 110 for one hour's solid work. Last year the Glee Club won first place in the Suburban Music Contest.

There is a girls' sextette, composed of Florence Bliese, Edith Eckert, Dorothy Cooley, Ruth Bliese, Gertrude Frank, and Helen Heywood. These girls have sung for many Waukesha clubs, the assembly, and between the acts of the all-school play, "Nathan Hale."

The Glee Club gave an operetta, "Pinafore," in February, with Florence Bliese taking the lead.

Mr. Worthington, as president of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' Association, invited the Glee Club to Madison in February to sing for the general meeting. They sang "The Lamb," "Sylvia," "Around the Gypsy Fires," "Lift Thine Eyes," and "Flower of Dreams."

Boys' Glee Club

The Boys' Glee Club is an organization composed of thirty-three boys who meet Tuesday and Thursday noons during school—and as many other times as possible. At the time of "Pinafore," many evening practices were held.

Of all our groups in school, perhaps this one has improved, in a year, more than any other. The success of the operetta, "Pinafore," is proof of this, for without the boys it could not have been given.

In this year's contest at West Milwaukee, Waukesha High School was represented by Henry Kroncke, who sang the tenor solo; Van Lare Cambier, who sang the bass solo; Howard Redford, John Smith, Richard Kline, and Henry Kroncke, who composed the quartette. Of course the Glee Club as a whole was entered and also sang with the girls in the mixed chorus event.

All the boys, together with Miss Monlux and Miss Haentzchel, deserve much credit for their hard work and for the honors which they have brought to their school this year.

Junior High Girls' Glee Club

President	Betty Schroeder
Vice-President	Laura Jane Birch
Secretary	Phonsie Jacob
Treasurer	Nancy Jaeger

The Junior High Girls' Glee Club consists of forty-five members who meet every Wednesday night after school for one hour of enjoyable work.

The club in its initial appearance sang "Bendemeer's Stream" and "Santa Lucia" for the National Federation of Music Clubs, of which the Waukesha Junior High Glee Club became a member this year. Later they sang the same songs in the assembly. Their hearers were so impressed by these that the club was asked to take part in the Christmas program. Consequently in the garb of English carolers the group sang "A Capella," "Joy to the World," "The Caroling Song," "Three Kings of Orient," "Hark the Herald," and "Silent Night." Later the Glee Club did something even finer—put on an operetta.

The Junior High Glee Club is under the direction of Miss Grace Fardy. In the earlier part of the year, Dorothy Burtch, a member of the eighth grade, acted as accompanist. Later Miss Haentzschel, assistant in the Music Department, played for the club.

The double purpose of the club is to give the Junior High a Glee Club of its own, and to prepare the girls for the Senior Glee Club under Miss Monlux.

This is the second year in which the Junior High Glee Club has been organized and it certainly has been very successful.

Row 1: Miss Haentzschel, Adams, DeLong, Alberts, McDougall.

Junior High Boys' Glee Club

The Junior High Boys' Glee Club is a growing organization this second semester. There are thirty-five boys on the roll, out of which twenty-seven have a good attendance record. Most of the boys whose attendance is not perfect are missing because of an over-eagerness to enter several outside activities which sometimes conflict.

The club meets one forty-five minute period a week after school, and it is to be hoped there will be more time for it next year. Unison and two-part songs with patriotic or martial flavor, one or two nature songs, and a folk song have made up the material so far. Three-part songs, such as "The Song of the Gondolier" and "The Sandman," are especially liked by the boys, and have constituted the later work.

The organization seems promising for next year, and the Junior High boys can do much by coming to the first try-outs when they are held next fall.

Members not appearing on the picture are: Burdick Burtch, Roy Lange, Robert Lockman, Franklin Mullen, Jerome Roberts, Lyle Vinger, Osborne Lichtie, Charles Suber, Robert Smart, Glen Downing, Harvey Sieling, Charles Stock, David Dancey, Victor Perrin, Jack Cadieu.

Row 4: Tempero, Winchell, Roberts, Stollberg, Richardson, V. Salter, Volpano, Shockley, R. Salter, Wakeman, Ward.

Girls' Chorus

The Girls' Chorus meets once a week under the direction of Miss Haentzschel to sing mainly three-part songs, some unison, and two-part work. Occasionally Miss Haentzschel reads an opera or the life of a certain opera star, after which there is a discussion. It is quite interesting to know how a star began her career, where she lived, and what her experiences were during her career. The class has a bulletin board on which are posted clippings of opera stars and almost anything that pertains to music that would be of interest to everyone.

The class does some capella singing, and has a Victrola on which are played several fine records such as "The Mad Scene" and "Celeste Aida."

It has been the desire of the Waukesha High School music teachers to teach the girls to appreciate good music. The girls have taken a keen interest and delight in the chorus work and have to some extent developed a discriminating taste for better music.

Row 1: Griswold, Edwards, Graser, Lichtie, Dixon, Hartwick, Cramer, Koput, Charlton, Moore, Barney, Klatt.

Row 4: Diel, Flamingo, Cook, Holtz, Gaylord, Monsler, Clark, Mueller, Graham, Kusch, Keller, McArther.
Row 5: Glynn, Hoffman, Moine, Graham, Garvens.

Although they have not sung before an outside audience, they have been appreciated for their work in the assembly programs.

Honorary Forensic Society

Since the revival of debating in our High School, a local forensic honor society has been formed. It will follow the model used in other schools which recognize four ranks based upon skill in debate, experience, scholarship, and character. Keys are awarded to all who are elected to membership with the designation of the rank achieved indicated on them.

The following have been chosen since the organization was founded:

1. Highest Honor: none.
2. High Honor: none.
3. Honor: Joseph Runkel, Richard Boeck, Georgia Condos, James D'Amato, Swen Magnusson, Alvin Hoffman, Mary Elizabeth Owen, Dorothy Schmuki.
4. Membership: Lloyd Murphy, Richard Huston.

High School Band

President	Lloyd Murphy
Vice-President	Robert Moyle
Secretary-Treasurer	Perry Gale
Custodian	Charles Wilkins

The band director, Mr. Damsteegt, is especially deserving of congratulations for the work he has done with this organization this year. It started out facing great odds last September, since several of its oldest and most experienced members had graduated with the June class. Practically the whole clarinet section is in new hands.

Notwithstanding this handicap, the band forged ahead into what has been a most successful season. Especially is appreciation due to the Board of Education, who have taken manifest interest in our organization, and who, through their liberal donations, have certainly made possible a large share of the band's success. Through them it has been made possible to add two French horns and a Sousaphone to the band.

Most of the band meets once or twice a week for class work. In this way the members progress much more rapidly than if they had no band class and individual instruction.

The band has been very loyal to the team this year. It has turned out to every home game, and with good, snappy marches has backed up the football men. The band was also on hand at all basketball games.

The next two or three years ought to be outstanding in the history of the band. With all these new instruments and the combined efforts of Mr. Damsteegt and the new members, the band is ready to take its place with the best.

Third Circle: Bliese, Heywood, Drake, Ward, Moyle, Nichols, Miller, Schiewitz, Feidler.

High School Orchestra

The orchestra this year has made very decided improvement under the able instruction of Mr. Damsteegt. The aim has been fourfold: better tone quality; better interpretation; better expression; and better intonation.

The School Board has been kind enough to appropriate money to buy several new instruments. Instruments were needed for the advancement of the organization and have been a very useful addition.

The new instruments are: two string basses, one Sousaphone, three cellos, two violas, two tympani, two French horns.

The total enrollment of the orchestra is forty-nine. It has played in several public performances with success. The members of the organization feel that much credit should be given to Mr. Damsteegt for his unceasing labor in their behalf.

The orchestra meets as a regular class the fourth period each day. This plan has worked out much better than the after-school meetings of previous years. More work is accomplished and by constant practice better quality of work is produced. Full credit is given for this class.

Waukesha High School is indeed proud of the orchestra and of its standing with other schools.

Waukesha Chapter of Future Farmers of America

President	Russell Morris
Vice-President	Herbert Mueller
Secretary	Lyman Bloom
Treasurer	Gerald Von Ruedon

The Waukesha Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was organized by students of the Vocational Agricultural Department during 1929. Forty-two charter members elected officers and two delegates to the state meeting held at Madison in October.

The membership is divided into four grades: these grades are based on achievement and are as follows:

"Green Hand." Must be fourteen years of age, regularly enrolled in vocational agriculture, have a satisfactory home project, and receive a majority vote of the local members at a regular meeting of the chapter.

"Future Farmer." One year of completed work in vocational agriculture, earned and deposited or invested 25 dollars, know the Future Farmers' Creed, be able to lead a discussion for at least ten minutes and receive a majority vote of the chapter members.

"Wisconsin Farmer." This degree is given only by election of delegates to the State Convention. Members elected must be leaders in departmental activities as well as school activities.

"American Farmer." This degree is given only at the National Convention. Boys elected are chosen from the group of State Farmers.

Debate

The aesthetic thrill of intellect clashing with intellect belongs alone to the debater. After long months of scrutinizing investigation, careful inquiry, and vigorous training, the final contest is a spectacle of intense interest and excitement. Each case is erected on a firm foundation until it stands a beautiful structure gleaming in its flawlessness, immune to the wind of adversity. Then the jubilant shout of the victor; for the vanquished, a "well done" and a sincere shake of the hand.

In the past season our school was a member of the state league, debating the question: "Resolved, that installment buying of personal property as now practiced in the United States is both socially and economically desirable." The following persons represented our school:

Affirmative—Dorothy Schmuki, Lloyd Murphy, Alvin Hoffman (Captain).

Negative—Mary Elizabeth Owen, Richard Huston, Swen Magnusson (Captain).

Under the excellent guidance of Mr. Grueneisen the teams made splendid progress. In this division of each of the four official contests, Washington High won four, Waukesha two, West Allis one, and Kenosha one. Thus our school was pre-eminently successful inasmuch as the opposition was especially strong.

Science Club

In January, 1930, the Waukesha High School Science Club was formed by a group of students who were interested in learning more about the sciences. The aim is to help the members to become more familiar with the practical uses of the common sciences: physics, chemistry, biology, and astronomy. The club meets every week in Room 302 under the guidance of Mr. Humbert, when facts, illustrated by experiments, are given by different members of the club who are appointed by the program committee. There are now about thirty members of the club. Everybody who is interested in science is welcome to the meetings.

Senior High Banking

All students enrolled participate in banking, everyone having a passbook and depositing regularly. Students are encouraged to set aside a part of their earnings or allowance that otherwise would be spent for unnecessary luxuries. The thrift habit does not apply only to dollars and cents, but to the efficient use of supplies, resources, and time. A bank account gives the student a sense of financial responsibility which he must have in later life.

It is not sufficient to educate young people for a job. We must develop in them habits that will make them happy and successful citizens. The individual who does not set aside money as a saving, or investment, is not as successful as he would be if he had saved. Happiness and success are not found in poverty.

Thrift habits eliminate much poverty. Large commercial enterprises depend on savings of individuals for capital. The financial strength of the nation depends upon financial independence of its citizens.

"There can be no material success without Thrift; it is the foundation of Success."

Junior High Banking

School saving is a comparatively new idea, yet the teachers and students of the Lincoln Junior have become thrift conscious, as is evidenced by their loyal support of it and the splendid results shown in the records for this year. Junior High School has maintained a weekly average of 99 percent and sends to the bank a weekly deposit of over $100. At present the school children of Waukesha have a balance of over $28,000 in school savings.

The success of the thrift program in the Junior High School has been due to the splendid co-operation of the home room teachers and the students. They earnestly believe that success depends on the ability of men and women, and boys and girls to look ahead, realizing the benefits of saving in early school life.

Thrift has become a habit in the Junior High School, and as a result it is seen that the pupils are beginning to believe that "A penny saved is a penny earned."

There are twenty-two home rooms, and all but two or three have maintained a 100 percent record throughout the year.

The Junior Prom

Perhaps one of the most unusual proms that Waukesha High School has ever seen was put on by the Junior Class of 1931. The plan of decoration was carried out in black and white, the design consisting of huge alternating triangles and a dropped ceiling, throwing the pattern on the floor—a most effective and striking background for the array of brilliant dancers. A prominent member of the Junior Class, Betty Laing, reigned with charm and dignity as queen and leader of the grand march.

The committees were: Executive, John Smith, Magna Werra, Elizabeth Hopkins; Decoration Chairman, Mildred Barnhart; Program Chairman, Martha Belle Beaty; Orchestra, Chester McCann; Refreshment, Mary Jane Jeffrey; Entertainment, George Shellestad.

John Davies proved a most efficient chairman, and under the direction of Miss Hawkins and the aid of the committees the prom was most original and memorable.

Cardinal Star

With as able a supervisor as Mrs. Harkness and as energetic a group of hustling advertisement solicitors and news-gatherers as the 1929-30 journalism staff proved to be, the weekly Waukesha High School paper, the Cardinal Star, could not help but be a success either from a financial or from an informational standpoint.

The students were taught to realize that the advertising section of the paper was the framework on which the news had to be hinged. Downtown business shops were solicited by members of the classes, and the ads came in by the dozens. Thus from Journalism, students learned not only the two essentials needed for all good news stories—how to write interestingly and accurately—but also the young journalists developed business sense and had a real practice in salesmanship.

In forming the Cardinal Star, which came out on Thursdays, the Journalism Classes did all the work but the printing, the "B" class generally having charge of most of the news gathering, and the "A" class handling the advertising, circulating papers to subscribers in home rooms, and planning the paper.

The 1929-30 Journalism was as interesting as it was instructive, every pupil in both wide-awake "A" and "B" classes being on his toes and ready to write news any time called upon. The further advance of Journalism in Waukesha High would be assured if all forthcoming journalists had as much energy, initiative, and willingness as those who have been in the Journalism Classes for the last two semesters.

Megaphone Staff

The Megaphone Staff is composed of students interested in journalistic work from all Senior High classes. As many Sophomores and Juniors are worked in as possible so that they may be trained to carry on the work.

Class editors get the pictures of the students, and they organize the written material. The faculty editor writes up the activities of each department. The organization editor identifies all the club pictures and writes a bit concerning each club. The athletic editors write brief synopses of the activities on school athletics. The literary editor gathers together all the best literary work. The snap-shot editors take pictures of all outstanding features of school life. The art editors do some illustrating. The typists type all the written work. The editor and faculty adviser put it together. The photographer, engraver, and printer each do their work. The business staff collects the money and pays the bills and PRESTO!—the Megaphone.

Football

The 1929 football prospects for Waukesha High School were not very bright. Bob Stevenson and Harold Smith were the only players on the team who had ever played before; by the end of the season the players looked like a regular football team.

Coach Saubert's expectations for a first class team for next year look excellent. The players that we will lose are: Stevenson· Thiel, Weaver, Pertlula, and Wicker. However, thanks to the foresight of our coach, their positions can easily be filled by the "subs."

Waukesha won only two of its nine games in football, but then the greenness of our team will readily explain this. In spite of constant losing, they showed that they really had the stuff in them that makes good players.

Bob Stevenson, the only veteran in the backfield, played exceptionally good ball. He was our dashing quarterback who showed some wonderful work in catching passes and plowing through the line. Sorry to say, Bob will not be with us next year to help win the championship.

Les Weinkauf showed the makings of a good passer, and should prove to be one of the stars of next year's team. He took care of fullback.

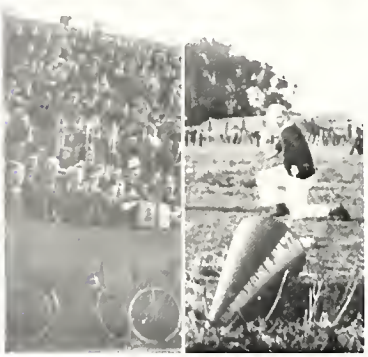
Row 4: Radtke, Stark, Pridemore, Weiss, Elger, Haylett, Rich, Roebel, Kranzush, Lombardi.

Linn Thiel and Earl Schley were our halfbacks. When either of them took the pigskin around an end or through the line, it generally meant a good gain. Earl proved to be quite a dangerous man when he was running as interference. He will be back with us next year to show what he really can do. Linn was the boy who caught many of our passes, and when he got his hands on that ball, it was too bad for his opposers. Linn graduates in June and has caught his last pass for W. H. S.

John Golemgeske, our next year's captain, proved to be the mot effective man in the line. There were very few times that he let a man slip by him untackled. He acted as captain several times and was a great inspiration to the boys.

Wicker and Pertlula, our ends, showed ability in catching and holding out their men. Wicker usually caught the passes, being the taller of the two. We unluckily lose both of these men and Coach Saubert will have to do some hunting around to fill their places.

Harold Smith was our "Old Standby" in the line. He was out during the first half of the season with a wrenched arm, but during the last half he showed some remarkable playing.



Oliver Moore and Harold Evans played guards and succeeded very well in getting and stopping their men. These two should prove to be a great help to Coach's line next year.

Bill Stare played a very consistent game at center and can well be proud of his record. When he centered the ball, Steve and the other backfielders knew where it was coming. Very seldom was he known to throw a bad pass and cause a fumble.

Bob Weaver was our punter and end until his leg was hurt in the Shorewood game. His punting was excellent and he could catch a pass. We lost a good man at Shorewood and Bob was seen walking around school on crutches for a week or so. We will lose Bob this spring, and there goes another valuable player.

Bill Wolf and Leroy Lagon played most of the time and showed the makings of great athletes. They should plow through the Suburban League schedule next year and find themselves on the top of the list of stars.

Our new football and track field is a "knock-out". It was erected last fall, and we have what is now the best track field in the Suburban League. All the track fellows have lauded the field and acknowledged its worthiness. As a gridiron, it has not been tested because it was being constructed during the major part of the football season. Next year, however, we expect to see some wonderful playing on the part of the W. H. S. football teams, inspired by the use of such a field.

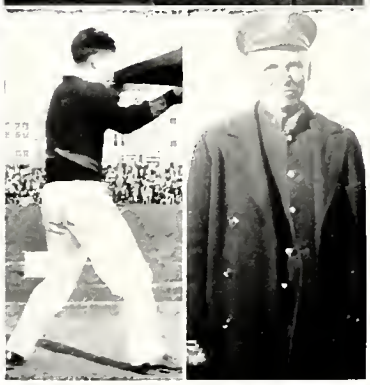
The field is fully equipped with all the imaginable modern necessities. The track, always oiled and packed hard, is very well kept. There is excellent equipment for pole-vault, high-jump, and broad-jump. There are specially prepared rings for the shot and discus thrower, and among other things which are considered as luxuries not to be had in many of the high schools.

The walk to Haertel field is perhaps a little farther for many students, but they will not mind that because of their interest in Waukesha's team.

Of course, a new field, new bleachers, and a revived team will make better fans of the Waukesha student body, bring larger crowds, and thereby bring more money. With the money the field can always be kept in splendid condition. So, come on everybody! Let's show them that the Old Waukesha High School Spirit is still there, and support them next season. Then watch them pull through and come on the top! Are you with us, gang?



Mr. Saubert, our coach, has taught the boys how to play football, basketball, and many other sports for several years. Since he has been here Waukesha has always had a good team, especially in the two sports specified. This year, however, Coach had planned on, if not as good a team as in former years, at least a fairly good team. Then a bunch of his boys fell out because of ineligibility. That absolutely wrecked his hopes for a good team.

Coach worked his best to get out a good team and he did succeed, considering all the green material he had to pick from. The boys all worked hard; Coach taught football to the best of his ability: and, by the end of the season, we had what was beginning to look like a veteran football team.

Mr. Lomas has had charge of the track team this year and has proved to be a good track coach. He is well liked by all the fellows and has given them many pointers. He selected a good track team and did very well with it. Next year we shall see a "rip-roaring" track team ready to take first place in every meet.

Mr. Panella, assistant coach to Mr. Saubert, has helped teach the boys football.

Junior High Athletic Board

Under the guidance of Athletic Director Westerlund and the B. A. A. Board, whose president this year is Fred Neumann, the Lincoln Junior High School intra-mural sports program has passed through a second very successful season.

The Athletic Board has functioned in splendid manner. Director Westerlund said, "It was a pleasure to work with them."

The activities now are: basketball, football, kittenball, tennis, track, and hiking. Soccer football is to be given a trial next fall. This sport ought to be very popular in that very little equipment is required to play the game, and that there is very little physical contact. This sport is added to the program to take care of the boys that are not allowed to play football.

The B. A. A. Board is composed of President, Fred Neumann; Vice-President, Barry Gillet; Secretary, Donald Willison; Treasurer, Francis Doughty, and class representatives Tom Disantis, "Chuck" Robel, Harry Mahnke, Jack Blaisdell, and David Wolf. The board meets every Thursday noon between 1:10 and 1:27, when the various matters pertaining to the athletic activities are discussed.

Junior High Football

One hundred and fifteen huskies, "raring to go," answered Coach Westerlund's football call. The group was divided into three leagues: major, intermediate, and minor. The major team composed of some twenty-five players was captained by Barry Gillet. The intermediate group formed two teams, Robert Adams captaining the Gophers and Carl Breecher the Wolverines. The minor group was composed of four teams captained by Marshall Holloway of the Wildcats, Norman Dunn of the Dodgers, Russell Greb of the Beavers, and Gilbert Redding of the Wolves.

The teams finishing first in their leagues were Adams' Gophers in the intermediate and Holloway's Wildcats in the minor. The Wildcats came through the season without a single defeat; also, they defeated a picked team at the end of the season with a score of twenty-six to nothing.

The scenes of the battles took place on the Haertel Field, Newhall Avenue, and the Park Field, and a great number of them were thrillers. A total of seventy-two games were played.

The majors were busy most of the year playing the Senior High fourths. They made a very presentable showing. To top the season off they took on the Industrial School team and were defeated by a nineteen to twelve score.

The Coach picked an All-American team out of the minor league. The boys making it were: Marshall Holloway, captain; Russell Grebe, Lawrence Walsh, Bruce Bancroft, Donald Willison, Herbert Klein, Lyle Vinger, William Schriver, Arthur Snodie, David Dancey, and Albert Redding.

The boys on the whole displayed fine sportsmanship and a good knowledge of football. There were no forfeited games. Taking it all in all the season was certainly a successful one.

Basketball

During the first part of the basketball season things were not as rosy for the team as they might have been. They did not seem to have the pep that they might have had; they succumbed to a string of defeats, and it looked as if they were going to end up in last place. Then came semester exams, a big tall center, and a Sophomore who could shoot like a "whiz," and we had a different team.

This last semester Waukesha High School caused some big upsets, and all the first division Suburban teams came to fear the team which they easily whipped before. It seemed as though a new team had stepped onto the floor.

Bob Stevenson, the captain, played a very consistent game of basketball. Although not a high scorer, yet he could always be depended upon for several points a game. Whenever Bob stepped up for a free throw, it usually meant another point to Waukesha's credit. Bob played forward and was an excellent defensive player. As captain, he was an inspiration to the team.

Howard Redford was our tall center. During the first semester, he was out because of ineligibility. But he qualified in his exams, and then proved his worth on the team both as an offensive and defensive player. With him at center, Waukesha pulled many upsets and caused many surprises.

Art Robel, the Sophomore star, played a great offensive game at forward after the first part of February. He became the threat on Waukesha's team, and he was guarded carefully by all teams the latter part of the season. He should prove to be one of the greatest basketball stars that Waukesha has ever seen if he keeps up his good work.

Harry O'Mealy is another big threat on the offensive. His ability to shoot quickly and precisely has added point after point to his record. Harry is a Junior and will be back next year.

Les Weinkauf and John Golemgeske were our main reliances on defensive playing. Both played excellent games and stopped many of the shots which would otherwise have lost games for us. With a little more experience they should prove invaluable to the quintet.

Then there is another regular, Linn Thiel. Linn is a good all-around basketball player, fast on his feet, an excellent shot, and a good dribbler. Many times Linn has saved us from defeat by sinking one of his side shots.

Bill Wolf, John Davies, Earl Schley, and "Hans" Delzer complete the list of basketball men. Hans hurt his shoulder in the first Wauwatosa game and then we lost him for the rest of the season. Bill, Johnny, and Earl played good games when they were given the chance, and all three have another year before them in which to make good.

Junior High Basketball

With about 225 boys taking part in basketball and forming twenty-eight teams, it is readily seen that this sport is by far the most popular with Junior High boys.

Out of these 225 boys, three leagues were formed, known as "Majors," in which there were eight teams, captained by Jack Blaisdell, Fred "Doc" Woodhead, Barry Gillet, Laverne Reap, Tom Godersky, Francis Doughty, Ray Trakel, and Emil Katzner; "Intermediates," composed of sixteen teams, captained by Harold Mahnke, Charles Russell, William Kosbiel, Frank Adams, Albert Redding, Arthur Alm, Raymond Knight, "Chuck" Robel, Warner Thomas, Clarence Tessman, James Bayne, Dan Yatzeck, Tom Johnson, Fred Christenson, Spencer Klatt, and Robert Branch; "Minors," composed of four teams, captained by Carmel Inzeo, Earle Wolfe, Chester Birch, and Dean Stelley.

Francis Doughty's Gophers have first place cinched in the "Majors," Robel's Lynx, Knight's Wolverines, and Christenson's Lions are battling for first place in the "Intermediates," while Wolfe's Vikings, Inzeo's Pirates, and Birch's Weasels are striving for honors in the "Minor" League.

A total of 225 games will have been played before the season closes, a record that will vie with that of any other school in the state.

The way in which the Minors took to basketball reminds one of the way ducks take to water. There was nothing to it at all. Coach Westerlund had but to issue a call and out of 36 boys 28 responded, a percentage of 79. That's fine spirit for you, and real attitude toward athletics. It is hoped that this minor spirit will not be on the down grade as these boys continue their climb toward Senior High.

There is some likely looking material in this group and should go a long way toward making Coach Saubert's heart glad as they come to him for final conditioning. Some of the boys who showed up well were Joe Medina, Chester Birch, "Little Dan" McGeen, Earl Wolfe, Roy Redford, Eugene Bach, Cormel Inzeo, Dean Stelley, "Bud" Burtch, and Lloyd Hack.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

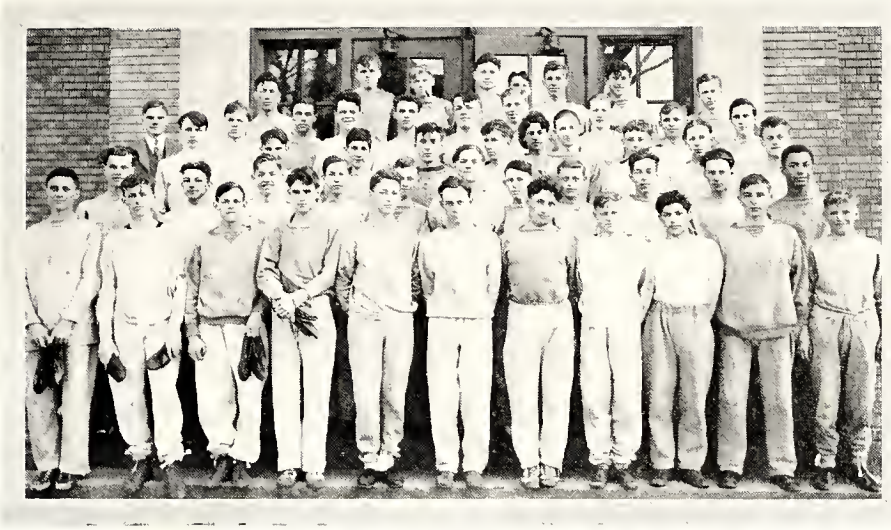
Volleyball

A new system of tournament was held in the Suburban League this year in volleyball. Instead of each team going to the various schools and challenging them twice a season, an elimination tournament was held in the Waukesha gym.

For the seventh consecutive year Waukesha stopped all comers and easily went through the tournament. This was all due to the superior coaching of Mr. Saubert, whom we all know to be one of the state's best coaches. At the beginning of the year we had only two lettermen back from the previous year, but by the time of the tourney we had a first-class team.

Redford and Wicker were the two lettermen. They showed their worth, Redford starring during the entire tournament and outclassing the best competitors. Golemgeske, Stark· Harbort, Schley, Weinkauf, and Griesell all played good games, and most of them will return next year to repeat their success.



Row 1: Kranzush, Branch, G. Schley, Klein, O'Mealy, F. Godersky (Capt.), Brunt, Gillet, Cohen, Adler, D. Wol..
Row 2: Bostwick, McCann, Krumpf, Gessert, Pridemore, M. Schley, Hinz, Settlage, West, Smith.
Row 3: Neumann, McGowan, Schultz, Elger, Allridge, Guttey, Aplin, Hughlett, T. Godersky, Schock.
Row 4: Coach Lomas, Morris, Stork, Olson, Schaefer, Bostwick, Feldman, Eimer, Pronold, Tews, Cambier.
Row 5: Welf, Redford, W. Wolf, Golemgeske, E. Schley, Weinkauf, Bernstein, Smith.

Track

This year's track squad has proved that Waukesha High School has the makings of a real future team. Although there were only four lettermen back from last year (Captain Godersky, Harry O'Mealy, Howard Redford, and Harold Smith), yet they may place in the Suburban meet at our new field.

These boys were strengthened, however, by a really good bunch of long distance runners from the cross-country team which had been developed into experienced runners by our new track coach, Mr. Lomas.

Our pole vaulters, Bill Pretts and Francis Doughty, managed to come up near the top of the pole in the tournament. Howard Redford, the big discus thrower, last year showed that he was every bit as big a man as he looks. John Smith did the high jumping for us and surely gave competition to the other "high-steppers."

Frank Godersky and Harry O'Mealy, our two distance runners, proved that their experience was a big asset when it came to taking places. Frank (sorry to say that he leaves this year) was the track captain and surely deserved that position. Harry will still be with us another year and can still prove to be an even better runner than at the last meet. Frank ran the half-mile for us and showed the other schools how to run it; Harry ran the mile, and we all know how that boy can run on long distance runs.

We hope to have a better track team next year than ever before, and probably will under the efficient direction of Mr. Lomas.

Top Row: Coach Lomas, Olson, Aplin, Klein, West.
Bottom Row: G. Schley, McCann, O'Mealy, Adler, M. Schley.

Cross-Country

The cross-country tournament was held at Shorewood this year, with Waukesha, Shorewood, and Cudahy competing. This tournament, although it did not mean much, really developed the long distance men for our track team. We took second place in the meet, "Chet" McCann taking second place.

O'Mealy, our second man, was our mile man for track this year and proved that he could do better than he did in the cross-country tournament. Harry will be back in it next year and it will take lots of good competition to beat him.

"Chet" McCann, Richard Klein, Gilbert Schley, Fred Rosenmerkle, and Robert Aplin all took a place in the meet. With the exception of Fred Rosenmerkle, all the other boys will be back next year and will take first rather than second place in any meet.

L. Williamson C. Estberg

Tennis

The tennis team this year proved to be excellent. There were three players from last year's team back: Harry Kimpel, Gene Kimpel, and Lawrence Williamson. We missed, however, the strength of Charles Estberg, who played a wonderful game. George Kohler filled "Chick's" place well, and showed that he was "worth his weight in gold" when it came to tennis.

Golf

This year's golf squad was rather a large one. Only a few players from last year's squad were back, however, and we missed Yopps, Estberg, and Schneider.

The team put up a good fight in the tournament and managed to rank near the top. The boys all played consistent games and should show some very excellent material for the 1931 golf team.

The Senior G. A. A. is a large organization, and it is growing larger on account of the excellent new system being worked out. The system is this: The G. A. A. is divided into groups for which leaders are appointed. There happen to be fourteen groups with about twelve or fifteen members in each one. The groups determine a name for themselves by which they are known throughout the athletic seasons. During volleyball, basketball, and other sports each group becomes a team, plays every other team, and tries to win all of its games. Of course this is exciting, and it draws many girls who otherwise would not have been interested.

So far this system has worked out very nicely, and if everyone continues to be satisfied, it probably will be carried out again in the future.

Row 1: Smith (Leader), Martin, Williams, Fischer, Bucci, Waters, McNaught, Garrow, Green.

Row 2: Kuess, H. (Leader), Ross, Mueller, Salter, Beaty, Diel, Bernau, Flamingo, Yeroshek, Perren, Heyder.

Row 3: Nass (Leader), Sayles, Shockley, Murray, Seitz, Korber, Hargrave, Nelson (Leader), Harbort, Kuess, G.

Row 4: Jacques, Lobuscher, Raht, Miller, McKnight, Teuteberg, Clutterbuck, Assman, Welter, Jay, Ross.

Row 5: Robinson (Leader), Jones, Fuchs, Empey, Hadfield, Granicher, Volpano, Winter.

The Gym Exhibit was as good as any ever held in the High School, and many think it was better.

The girls practiced very hard to make it a success. They reported very regularly and with an eagerness to do well that outdid everything else.

Frances Jacques had charge of the marching, and Carolyn Mill superintended the exercises. The girls in the marching were divided under leaders who kept them in order and gave them the clues about the different marching tactics.

Miss Dodge was very well pleased and the audience also expressed their pleasure. We are thankful to those girls who made it a success.

Three classes from Junior High, all in costume, put on excellent dances which delighted the audience.

Row 1: Perren (Leader), Sawyer, E., Schuetze, Misslin, Borenstein, Schmuki, Rhode, Kusch, Belland, Dunn, H., Klug.
Row 2: Groll (Leader), Cyzenski, Howell, Knipfel, Orth, Howard, Dancey, Ostermann, Werra, Gierke, Mill, Gaylord, Murray, Torhorst.
Row 3: Moine (Leader), Clark, Diethelm, Staub, Hopkins, Laing, Owens, Roberts, Abrahamson, Hardtke, Dunn, D.
Row 4: Storck (Leader), Koch, Hamilton, Houser, Dieman, Schneider, Sawyer, M., Jeffrey.

The G. A. A. is one of the biggest organizations among girls in the High School. Through it they come into contact with the sports and get a "W," and it also gives them points for the Honor Society.

Row 1: Torrison, Goetzelman, Robinson, Settlage, Vetto, Pridemore, Marshek, Murray, McCarrager, A.
Row 2: Rosenmerkle, (Leader), Barnhardt, Zuehl, Bliesath, Kravanger, Keppen, Stanfield, Preston, Ritter, Sewnig.
Row 3: Barnes, (Leader), McCarragher, Wurms, Bray, Charleton, Christison, Dubey, Brown, Miller.
Row 4: Pfeffer, (Leader), Martin, Plehn, Lehermann, Elger, Sherman, Wolf, Howard, Badciong, Trushinski, Brandt, Eising, Jenkins.
Row 5: Prescott, (Leader), Muehl, Knoebel, Stollberg, Atkin, Spillman, Mills, Drake, Kindsvogel, Woyahn.

Row 1: McKnight, Robinson (Captain), Jones.
Row 2: Empey, Teuteberg, Fuchs, Trushinski (Manager).

Senior High Volleyball

This was the first sport carried out under the new G. A. A. system. There was the much needed rivalry to make the season extraordinarily interesting. Frances Robinson was the leader of the group which carried first place. They lost only one game out of the thirteen played. Viola Nass's and Myrtle Groll's teams tied for second place.

Senior High Baseball

Baseball seems to draw a great many girls in the spring. Every class was wonderfully represented. The Seniors took first place, with the Sophomores coming close for second place. Practices and tournaments were held in Cutler Park, and the girls usually had a crowd of spectators who enjoyed the many home runs.

Storck, Charlton, Teuteberg, Yeroshek, Preston, Heyder, Murray.

Senior High Skating

This winter, the first in many years, provided some ice at the right time for the girls to have a meet. It was nicely scraped and fixed up for use when Miss Batz decided that the girls were to have their tournament. Those who had their twenty-four hours of practice competed. Lucille Heyder took first place: Alice Storck and Ethel Teuteberg tied for second place. This is one of the easiest and yet most exciting of winter sports. We hope more will try out for this activity next year.

Every girl has dreams of attaining the high record in something. Try skating—it furnishes wonderful material for hopes. One must take a few bumps at first, but she soon knows how, and then she practices just for the fun of it and to see how many friends she can beat in a race. She comes out for skating as the winter sport, and soon she has won this race, too, and has attained the desire of her dreams. All the girls who placed in the race enjoyed it immensely, and they'd be glad to have a few others find out what fun it is.

Top Row: Hamilton, Schmuki, Koch, Rode, Gierke (Manager).
Bottom Row: Misslin, Schuetze, Belland, Storck, Dunn, Orth.

Senior High Basketball

Basketball was most exciting. One never would dream how thrilling it really is. Of course the girls got so worked up that it was the most enthusiastic basketball season we have had for years. It was worked out under the new G. A. A. system and came along as beautifully as the rest of the athletic programs have in this new idea. Alice Storck's team took first place, winning every one of its fourteen games. We want more girls next year. You'll enjoy it.

Senior High Track

Track is a favorite spring sport. The Junior Class was so well represented that the other classmen suggested an individual tournament. This plan went over with great fun. The team consists of winners in hurdling, running and standing broad jump, high jump, discus, and shotput. Carolyn Mill placed first in discus and shotput; Esther Winter won in hurdling, and Lucille Heyder carried off the honors in running broad jump.

Mill, Winter, Heyder

Pfeil, Oettinger, Ostermann (Manager), Shockley

Senior High Archery

This is a comparatively new sport, but it is being carried on with surprising success. The fine weather in the fall allowed many practices for enthusiastic bowmen. Miss Batz, the supervisor, was delighted with the results. Mary Oettinger placed first with several others not far behind.

Senior High Tennis

Not so many girls turned out for this sport as Miss Batz wished for, but there was so much fun that those who did come out certainly enjoyed it. The entrants were ably instructed, making the tournaments exciting.

Elizabeth Jarden	Treasurer
Frances Jacques	Adviser

The Junior G. A. A. was directed by a board of ten capable girls this year. Batball, tennis, volleyball, captainball, and baseball tournaments were held, all of which proved to be very exciting. Lorraine Blott managed an exciting batball tournament; Laura Jane Birch had charge of volleyball, and Phronsie Jacob led the captainball tournament. The girls were ably coached by Senior High School girls, who deserve much credit for their splendid co-operation.

Several parties were enjoyed by the girls. They had a Hallowe'en party very much in the spirit of the season. Ghosts—Black Cats—Screams—Everything.

In January they held a coasting party. The girls coasted for about an hour on Windsor Drive, and then returned to school for a hot lunch. All of the tournaments were followed by big spreads, and everything was topped with a costume party. The Junior High Girls co-operated very well with the Senior High in putting on the gym exhibit. Above are the pictures of the board members who made everything a success.

Junior High Batball

The team just entering Junior High School proved from the first practices that they would give the upper classes stiff competition. They walked off with the honors in the batball tournament by winning from the 9B's in a play-off for the tie. If 7B's can do this the first year they ought to be quite experienced in two more years.

Junior High Volleyball

The volleyball tournament was won by the 9A team, 8A's second place, and 9B's third place. The games that were played between the winning teams were most exciting. One couldn't predict the winner until the final whistle had blown.

Junior High Baseball

The Junior High baseball tournament was won by the 9A Class. The games between the 8B, 9B, and 9A Classes seemed to be the most exciting, and the 9A's won from the 9B's in the deciding contest.

Junior High Captainball

Although there wasn't much time for practice this year, the tournament proved to be exciting. The 8A's, 9B's, and 9A's tied for first place. In playing off the tie, the 9A's emerged victorious.

Junior High Tennis

The championship honors for tennis were won by Edna Assman, with Betty Schroeder runner-up. This was for the more experienced girls. The beginners' tournament was won by Gladys Hardtke, with Lillian Fischer runner-up.

Junior High Track

The 8A team captured the honors for the track meet this year. The following people were on their team: Frieda Cohen, Alice Empey, Virginia Dixon, Gwenyth Price, Bernice Emling, and Gladys Gothow.

"L" Girls

At the end of the first semester there were fifteen girls who had received their letters. It is hoped there will be many more by the end of the year. A girl must have earned five hundred points in some form of athletics in order to receive her "L." Fifty points are given for each sport. Many of the girls win points by swimming, hiking, coasting, skiing, golfing, and many other sports not engaged in at school. A girl really feels that her athletics for three years in Lincoln Junior High has been a success when she wins her emblem. Laura Jane Birch received her second "L" this year, which is quite an achievement.

As was stated in assembly at the presentation, it is really not worthwhile to earn an "L" if one dosen't wear it when it is won. When a person is seen coming down the street with a letter on her white sweater, people know that she is a student from Lincoln Junior High School. The emblem is a thing to be proud of and not merely to decorate a sweater or to have something another girl does not have. All girls are not athletically inclined and cannot win their letters, but let all girls at least strive for this end.

Row 1: Perrin, Gierke, Jacques, Robinson, Trushinski, Mill.
Row 2: Moine, Welter, Schneider, Stollberg, Heyder, Nelson.
Row 3: Orth, Winter, Storck, Nass, Diethelm, Wolf.

"W" Girls

Every year a select group of girls succeeds in gaining this honor. One thousand points are required for a "W" and these are by no means easily gained. They are obtained by major sports and outside sports as hiking, bicycling, and swimming. The major sports are basketball, volleyball, track, and baseball, and only one hundred points can be gained in each season. This means extra hard work and a lot of pluck.

There are enough sports so that one can have a choice of the things that most appeal, and still get enough points at the end of the high school years. Volleyball and basketball are the exciting games played during the winter season. In spring, track, tennis, and baseball, all outdoor activities furnish the excitement, and there is enough pep in each to suit any girl. Of the extra activities which one can do at home, there are bicycle riding, swimming, hiking, roller-skating, and such things to keep one excited. Every point counts. The G. A. A. is very proud of everyone who attains this honor.

Black White Magic

Black shading to chocolate brown is the color of my garden in May. In dry periods it changes to a nondescript grayish brown. Shadows of the rills where the nascent seed lies are seen evenly up and down the plot of ground. The grape vines in the background have not even started to dress their reddish-brown stems with their silver-gray backed, bluish-green surfaced leaves. At this period my garden is a study in brown.

In June the color of my garden has changed. The silvery-gray leaflets of the grape vine can be seen in the background. In front of this appear, in orderly rows, many shades of green, some light, and some dark. In the very front, on either end, is a row of silvery-green plantlets. They are California poppies. They are nearly the shade of the grape leaflets in the background.

How shall I describe my garden in July! It is a riot of color. There is every conceivable color in the back row. The predominant ones are: light and dark purple, strawberry, brown (a rare color in flowers), azure, wine-red, lemon-yellow, and canary-yellow. This is a row of salpiglossis. The next row is composed of only two colors. There are violet-blue larkspur on each end and carmine in the center. Beautiful rose-pink is the color of the stately lavatera at either end of the next row. In the center are blue-eyed African daisies. They are white with a sky-blue center, surrounded by a narrow gold band. In front of these are snapdragon. There are many bright pink ones, some bronze, some canary-yellow, some brownish-yellow, some dark wine-red, some white, and some light pink ones. The front row is composed of two kinds of flowers. On either end are yellow California poppies. They are a vivid yellow. Between the poppies are phlox; the predominant color is red. There are also some scarlet whites, lavenders, blues, calicos, and all shades of pink, ranging from bright rose to pale pink.

Beige, chocolate, strawberry, sere yellow, orange-brown,—these are the colors of the stalks and dead foliage of the flowers in my garden in October. Again it is a study in brown.

An Attic

Two or three golf bags slide down a step or two and give you a rap on the legs when you first open the door of the average attic. As you pick your way up the steps between old "Posts" and "Americans," you firmly resolve to catch up on all the old reading you have missed. At the top of the steps a discarded radio greets you and you wonder if it couldn't be fixed to run.

The farther away from the stairs you go, the older the occupants of the room become. The center of the room holds a trunk in which are wrapped twenty years of clothing evolution.

As the sun comes out from under a cloud and reveals the whole attic you get the impression of a family history hiding under a screen of dust.

The Old Apple Tree

We have an old Duchess apple tree which has stood on our lawn like a withered and determined little guard for as long as I can remember. The tree is very much gnarled and twisted, and is an ugly sight in the winter, but when spring arrives and the blossoms come out, the old tree comes into its own again.

The gnarled and seamed limbs are now covered from sight by clusters of pale pink blossoms and patches of glossy, green leaves. The merry old robin with the dull red breast, who has returned to the tree year after year, is building a large, clumsy-looking nest out of twigs, dead grass, and string. As the south wind gently moves the branches, one can see the happy robin working busily among the leaves and blossoms, and one can see the loose ends of a few strings dangling from the half-built nest.

Marie Jansen

B-r-r-r-r went the bell, and Marie jumped. Who on earth was coming in at this time in the morning? Probably Mrs. Barr coming after a loaf of bread, or maybe old man Staley had run out of tobacco. He was always coming in there after tobacco. Well, she'd just have to drop her work and run down and wait on 'em.

Marie Jansen trotted down stairs, wiping her large, red hands on her apron as she went. She nodded to the child who stood before the counter, and took the slip of paper that was held out to her. Let me see, two pounds of sugar, one loaf of bread, and ten cents worth of candy. Well, that wasn't so bad. She weighed out the sugar and got the bread; then she trotted around to the candy case and waited. My goodness, but it took that child a long time. With only two or three kinds of candy in the case, wouldn't you think she'd know what she wanted? Marie measured out the right amount, put it into a paper bag, and pressed it into the child's chubby hand. "There now, run right along home to your ma, and don't get lost on the way."

The door slammed, and Marie stood looking out of the dirty window. She had tried to make those store windows look attractive, but what good did it do? In a week, everything would be covered with dust, and she simply didn't have a minute's time to spare on it. Well, what difference did it make? Nobody around there ever looked in the windows anyway. They just walked in, asked for what they wanted, and walked out. They didn't have time for window-shopping.

A fly buzzed in the sunlight, against the glass, and Marie became conscious of the fact that she was wasting precious minutes. She tucked up a wisp of stray hair and bustled back up stairs. My, but she had a lot of work to do! How was she ever going to get it all done when the bell was forever interrupting her? Sometimes she was tempted not to answer it. Let 'em walk off with the store. It wouldn't be much loss to her.

Marie was briskly wiping dishes and mumbling to herself when the deep B-r-r-r-r of the bell brought her down stairs again. Old man Staley was after his tobacco. She'd been expecting him. Didn't he almost always come tramping in when he got up at this end of the field? Humph! Wouldn't you think an old fellow like him would know better than to be such a slave to tobacco? It's a wonder his stomach wasn't played out. He'd be a sort of nice old codger if it wasn't for tobacco.

Marie smiled at old Peter Staley, and answered his remarks about the weather. She inquired about the health of Mrs. Staley, and was sorry to hear that she was still ill. Finally Peter got his tobacco and tramped out. Marie stood stock still and waited until the sound of the bell had died away, and then she swung about and surveyed the shelves. Well, it was nearly dinner time, and she hadn't the breakfast dishes washed yet. Now, what should she have for dinner? Some vegetable soup, and bread and butter would taste good. When a person's hungry, almost anything tastes good, and she wasn't going to fuss any for herself. Thank goodness, she didn't have a hungry family to get meals for.

After eating a hearty dinner, Marie moved into a more comfortable position and sighed. She was tired from the morning's work, and yet she had to go at it again. Why couldn't one just sit down and stay there? What was the sense of all that cleaning and scrubbing? Things only got dirty again, and she wasn't any farther ahead than she was before. Funny how Mrs. Barr always manages to go to everything and keep her house clean, too. But then, Mrs. Barr wasn't doing housework and waiting on people at the same time. B-r-r-r-r went the bell, and Marie jumped. Well, I wonder who it is now?

Down in the store once more. This time it was the baker. How many cakes wou d Mrs. Jansen take today? Well, let's see, how many did she want? Wouldn't do to take too many. Never could tell whether or not everybody's going to want cake. That was just the trouble with the folks around there: they were too changeable. Why, three weeks ago, when she had only half a dozen cakes on hand, everybody was asking for 'em. Then, only last week, she'd had two dozen cakes and only five of them had been sold. There wasn't any profit in that. Well, she'd better play safe this week and take half a dozen. What was that? No, she hadn't gotten rid of those cakes very easy. Yes, they'd been having some fine weather lately. Again the door banged, and Marie looked through the dusty window until the buzzing fly reminded her that time was flying.

All afternoon Marie ran back and forth between her housework and her customers. When evening came, she was tired out. Another day like today and she'd be through. What's the use of living if you've got to work all the time? B-r-r-r-r; there was that bell again. Well, suppose she'd have to do down no matter how tired she was.

What! Old man Staley again? He isn't after more tobacco, is he? Too bad something couldn't be done about it. What? Had she heard the news? No, no one had told her anything. Harold Jones had run away and joined the navy? Why, what will his mother do without him? How will she ever manage to pay Arthur's doctor bills and support all those children? Dear me, other people have their troubles, too.

Marie actually smiled as she gave old man Staley his tobacco, and then marched back up stairs. She pulled her big, cushioned rocker closer to the coal stove, settled herself in it, and then looked around and sighed. This time it was a sigh of contentment. Life was worth living after all.

Whispering Tongues of Trees

Red, yellow, russet, gold, auburn leaves which in summer have clothed the trees in garments of coolest green now have donned their party clothes. Isn't it fun to shuffle along in them ever pretending that childhood is yours? Even the most dignified and scholarly of folks can hardly resist the temptation. Misty breezes laden with whiffs of smudgy bonfires fill us with an exhilaration that we would not explain if we could. Children build houses, while young husbands rake bare the lawns of tiny bungalows only to have a fresh shower of the golden missiles almost cause profanity.

Fairy sailboats with sprites by the thousands astride them—resting, floating, and dipping, twirling autumnal tokens they are. Scientists tell us that the leaf turns red or yellow because of the chemical changes that take place in its cells as it reaches the end of its activities, but I much prefer the Jackie Frost thought. He steals along with his paint brush and causes the beauty like that hidden in all of us but which we cannot express.

After a short visit in their gowns of bewildering beauty and variety, these fairy missiles fall to be tramp'ed on and forgotten until the soft white blanket comes to hide them. Are they resigned to such a fate, or are they chagrined as we would be at a fall from glory? But even dead leaves are useful, for pitying rains dissolve their mineral contents and these help in fertilizing the soil. They also form a blanket for the roots of trees which bear more like them. Who knows but that a leaf may live again, as we hope to live some day?

Under the Canvas Skies

"Walk up, gentlemen, walk up!" bawled the ticket seller. "Absolutely the best show on earth at the most reasonable prices." Red, orange, and yellow banners are fluttering in the faint breeze. Heavy men stroll around in canvas pants and shirt sleeves, forever mopping their faces. A few prim old ladies stand stiffly erect with a strained expression upon their countenances. Flappers and sheiks walk arm in arm, visiting all the side-shows, stands, and booths. Here are some small children running to and fro, and crying, "Mama, buy me some!" Side-show entertainers step upon a platform, turn around, and step off. Hundreds of people, some serious, some gay, are all adventuring on the merry-go-round of life.

Ink, Ink, and More Ink

A pencil mark can be erased, a chalk mark can be erased, even a crayon mark can be erased after a fashion, but once an ink mark is made, it is doomed to stay. Don't think I am trying to blacken the name ink when I say that, upon occasion, it is the most thoroughly exasperating means of writing ever invented by man. Anyone whose pen blotted when he was adding the final word to a theme, or his signature to a letter, or the last star to—but wait a minute. I might as well start at the beginning.

It was announced in history class that next Friday maps were due, and that the best map would receive a bonus ten. I was badly in need of that ten, and I resolved to get it by fair means or foul.

The map was going to be all in ink. (This, by the way, was fulfilled more literally than I ever dreamed of). I went to work immediately after school. To show one section, I made dots until dots swam before my eyes wherever I looked. Then I drew lines horizontal and vertical, slanting right and slanting left, thin lines and thick lines—in fact, every kind of lines. Then followed dashes, circles, crosses, squares, and stars in close succession. It was a masterpiece in my humble estimation.

There was nothing left but to print the title and the artist's name. The telephone rang. I ran to answer it. My little brother, who is the typical little brother so often mentioned in short stories, had been watching my work with interest. He evidently thought it needed a finishing touch; for, when I came back, I found the ink bottle on its side and my precious map one black mass, with none of my dots, dashes, lines, circles, crosses, or squares visible.

The masterpiece was complete! G. S., '31.

Waiting

The clock banged loudly eleven times. A small fat man stepped into the room, seated himself, and smiled complacently.

"How could he!" I thought.

"Are you waiting, too?" he asked politely; and at my failure to reply, he laughed shrilly.

"You brute!" I whispered to myself, and envied him. Eleven forty-five already; how I wished the old clock would stop! My companion calmly rocked in time with the "nerve-wracking" ticks. Probably I could slip out. But no, the horrid fellow would call me a coward; he would laugh and maybe tell. There was no escape. The clock continued ticking. I tried to read but could not concentrate. Five more minutes and all would be ended. I couldn't dwell upon the thought. If only I had someone besides an insolent old man to comfort me. A woman glided in from behind a curtain. I jumped up; she bowed slightly, and in mellifluous voice politely informed me that Dr. Reuter was quite ready to pull my tooth.

The Prodigal Son

The story of the Hastings family is not a happy one. The divorce of Mrs. Hastings from a captain in the army, and her subsequent marriage to Mr. Hastings left the two sons of the former marriage wild and unmanageable. The elder of the two boys eloped with some young flapper, and settled in Boston. This left young Charles as the only child at home.

Mrs. Hastings was a kind, motherly woman who had derived little from life. An excess of pain during a severe sickness had slightly affected her mind. She suffered recurrences of pain without complaining, seeming silently pathetic, and a little piteous. She craved the love of a child for his mother, the love which her two sons never seemed to grant her.

Charles, a boy of sixteen, did not get along very well with his stepfather. He disliked having his will opposed, even in light matters; and naturally, arguments ensued over this. The more restraint his parents tried to place upon him, the wilder he got. When they attempted to make him stay home at night, he acquired the habit of sneaking out of the house after they were asleep, and spending the night in carousing about the town, getting into more and more trouble as time went on. Finally the crisis arrived; they discovered one night that he had been sneaking out of the house. Many arguments and threats followed, culminating one morning when they awoke to find him gone. This left Mrs. Hastings in a destitute state, living a lonely and sad life, punctuated often with grief and pain, but seldom with joy. Living in her large rich house alone with her husband, having few acquaintances and fewer friends, growing older physically with the years, and eventually with her thoughts. Living for only God knows what, except, perhaps, in the hope that her prodigal son, like the prodigal son of Biblical days, might come home to her at last, after having tasted of worldly life, to prop her declining years.

I Wonder What Time It Is?

A rooster crows with an important air. Another answers, a third prolongs the echo, and the arrival of the sun in heralded. An owl flounders past desperately seeking its nest while a bluejay boisterously announces its appearance at the creek. As though the sun had touched it off, the vehement ringing of a neighboring farmer's trusty alarm clock was next to show signs of life. The last notes of the nocturnal serenaders were heard from the distant pond while the sun slowly crept above the distant horizon to show its handsome self. Two inexperienced enthusiastic campers rolled over to make a more frugal use of the not so plentiful blankets. A look at the expired watch brought out an "I wonder what time it is?" from the observer, and another enjoyable day for two novice campers was begun.

Nathan

He had a terrible growling tone to his voice which made the Freshmen shake when they heard it issue forth from the front of the classroom.

To the Sophomores it was more awe than fear that he inspired in them.

The Juniors took him as an "old crab," and were glad when the class was over; for, they admitted, he did make them feel a trifle uncomfortable.

But to the Seniors, who were at that delightful stage of self-satisfaction and worldly-wise sophistication, he was only a disagreeable old man with a hollow voice and eyes that always saw more than one expected them to after some thirty years of teaching.

To all this terror, awe, and disgust that he created within the hearts of some two hundred pupils he instructed, Nathan was in utter ignorance—let us say blissful ignorance.

To him, he was only executing his duty of trying to drill men, dates, and events into the minds of these careless, harum-scarum young men and women, who, it seemed to him, had never been introduced to a serious thought or ideal in any of their precious few years. If, by chance, some of them had, they had very flatly refused to meet it.

To him, life was serious, life was vital, and each minute must be spent doing some material thing for which he would have something to show on the day of Judgment.

To say that he had ever been superbly happy would not be true or to say that he had ever been extremely sad. To him, life had always been the same from day to day, month to month, and year to year. He was one of these serenely passive people who are never raised to the clouds of happiness only to be thrust back into the dust of despondency; and in this, perhaps, he was better off.

Power

John strode rapidly down the grass-grown path, his eyes directly upon the ground before him and his forehead lined with furrows. Julia had always treated him nicely, had seemed glad when he called; and he had always hoped that they might have that little place, the top of which he could see lightly by the roseate rays of the setting sun.

But that was before the stranger had come. Tall, dark, dynamic, he had attracted everyone's attention, while his attention had centered on Julia. Tonight Julia and the stranger had planned attending the social, but he would forestall them. His anger was mounting as he thought of her half-given promise and their partly made plans. He climbed the steps, entered the house, and met Julia, her eyes sparkling, her lips parted, and a welcoming smile denoting her pleasure. John's wrath broke, his face broke into a smile, and thought of sharp reprimands vanished. A few vague excuses on a background of mysteriously provocative smiles, and John was sent down the steps with a cheerful smile just too late to see the stranger welcomed with the same easy, smiling reception.

A Feast

In preparing to read the following account, one must imagine himself a visitor of a large fifteen-hundred-acre ranch in the mountains surrounding the city of Reno, Nevada. The visitor must also imagine himself sitting drowsily on a box at the front of a small shack adjacent to the main house lying in the midst of a maze of corrals and fences.

It is a very warm day in September, and the large droves of small bluebirds are capering and twittering about the barns. The fall branding is in process, and the bawls of the calves can be heard above the din made by affectionate mothers. A quiet suddenly settles over the place due to the fact that a large dinner-bell has rung. Irons are dropped, calves let loose, and everyone makes a dash for the grub house. Your cat-nap is interrupted with a jar. You rush to the pump; and by the simple expedient of splashing water over yourself, you are ready for dinner.

All morning the Italian hands have been talking of the good meal the improvised cook (the regular cook is sick, and an Italian volunteers to take his place) will have. You are all enthusiastic. You are the first to the long table and seize upon the place nearest the kitchen. You rub your hands with anticipation of the coming meal. All the hands are jabbering at each other when suddenly a loud murmur arises. The cook is coming! He has a large steaming bowl in his hands. He sets it upon the table, and you are the first to pass your plate. You are all smiles until set before you is a bright yellow, steaming mass of corn-meal mush!
